WORLD'S FAIR SITE CHOSEN FOR UN HOME

N. Y. Mayor Reveals Interim Meeting Place for International Body.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 11—Mayor William O'Dwyer announced today the selection of the world's fair site at Flushing Meadow as an interim meeting place of the United Nations. The Sperry Gyroscope plant at Lake Success, Long Island, long considered as a possible site of the interim headquarters, was chosen as office headquarters of the United Nations, the mayor added.

The announcement was made after a 20-minute meeting this morning of Trygve Lie, UN secretary general; Grover Whalen, who has been assisting UN officials in seeking a satisfactory site in New York, and the board of estimate of New York City.

O'Dwyer said that the city had agreed to advance $1,250,000 for improving the Flushing Meadow park and the interior of the municipal building, now used as a skating rink.

The municipal building is contemplated for meetings of the general assembly.

The mayor said Lie and the board of estimate entered into a "verbal agreement" on the plan to use the old World's Fair site as the meeting place of the United Nations.

In reporting that the Sperry plant would be used for offices, the mayor added that the city was guaranteeing that housing units to accommodate 4,000 persons employed by the UN would be situated somewhere within the city and would be ready for occupancy by January 1.

The city building in the old World's Fair grounds would be available for use by Sept. 1, the mayor said. The general assembly of the United Nations will meet in New York Sept. 3.

The security council has met in the Hunter college gymnasium in the Bronx and it is contemplated that the council will continue to meet there at least until the UN contract for the Hunter college city expires May 15.

FERTILIZER COMPANY IS ORGANIZED HERE

New Product To Be Made in Berlou Plant.

Formation of a new Marion company, to be engaged in the manufacture of liquid fertilizer, was announced today.

It is known as the Na-Churs Plant Food Co. and will be located in the Berlou Mfg. Co. building. Officers are B. Peterson, president; H. A. Petrich, vice president, and Richard L. Morgan, secretary.

Articles of incorporation were issued today by the secretary of state.

Mr. Peterson said the company should have its product on the market in about two weeks. All material necessary is on hand and next week processing the fertilizer will start. Tanks and mixers already have been set up in the Berlou building.

The liquid fertilizer will be mixed with water, one tablespoon full to each gallon of water, and will be sprinkled over the plants. The solution is primarily for gardens, lawns and small plants, Mr. Peterson said, and plans are being worked out to apply it with an ordinary garden hose. Although the fertilizer could be used for field crops, there still are no plans for applying it on a large scale.

The product will be sold through drug tores, hardware stores, seed stores and florists, and operations probably will mean

Galion Family Escapes from Burning Home

Special to The Star

GALION, April 11—Fire early today at the West Railroad street home of Willard Girton, contractor for interior decorating, ruined contents of the kitchen and dining room. After Mr. Girton had lit an oil stove in the kitchen about 6:30, he went to the basement to tend to the furnace. When he returned, the kitchen was on fire and the blaze spread rapidly so that Mrs. Girton and three children, who had been asleep upstairs, reached the stairway just in time to avoid being cut off by the flames. Efforts of the city fire department confined the fire to the two downstairs rooms. Mr. Girton said that loss, unestimated yet today, would be covered by insurance.

$3,500,000 Industrial and Business Building Program Now in Full Swing Here

Construction Boom Called Greatest in Marion in 20 Years or More; Other Projects Planned.

By AUSTIN E. SHOWMAN

Marion business and industry are experiencing their biggest building boom in 20 years or more, according to a survey of local business and industrial development.

Chamber of Commerce officials estimate that more than three million dollars have been invested in Marion industry in the last year and about a half million dollars invested in local business and stores in the last six months.

Not since the 1920's has there been such an expansion, according to local observers, and some feel that even then there was not the money invested in Marion factories and stores that there is today.

Shortages of materials and labor are holding up many other projects which may get under way as soon as supplies are available. Still others are in the planning stage and may develop within the next few months.

Large Huber Building.

Leading Marion's $3,000,000 industrial expansion program is the Huber Manufacturing Co. The Huber company is building a new modern factory building with the newest type of industrial lighting and handling equipment. The building is approximately 220 feet by 400 feet and will have about 88,000 square feet of floor space on one level. The company expects its completion and occupancy late this spring or early this summer, depending upon the arrival of critical materials.

Universal Cooler and the Quaker Oats company also are working on extensive building programs.

The Quaker Oats company's Ken-L-Products division recently purchased the plant formerly occupied by the Marion Packing company, West Center street, and is spending a half million dollars in rebuilding and equipping the plant with the most modern fixtures. The plant will process a line of dog foods and export some canned meat to foreign countries.

Universal Cooler is now carrying on a million dollar plant expansion and new equipment program. When the work is completed the plant will have doubled its manufacturing and office space since coming to Marion in 1940. The company is the Marion division of International Detroit Corp.

Shovel Co. Improvements.

Marion Power Shovel Co. president and general manager, M. E. Montrose, reported to company directors and stockholders at a meeting last week plans for a rehabilitation program to modernize the factory and improve working conditions. Expenditures totaling half million dollars already have been authorized for plant improvement, Mr. Montrose reported.

The Fairfield Engineering Co. has recently completed and is now using a new building addition to its plant. The addition has been built to the latest modern design for use as a receiving dock and material storage in one section of the building and a complete chain assembly line for use in their manufacture of conveying machinery.

The Marion Water Co. has recently replaced the old stand pipe on Gurley avenue with a new 300,000-gallon water tank of the latest design. The new tank gives the city an additional 150,000 gallons of water in case of emergency and is one of the late developments in water engineering.

The Marion Rural Electric Cooperative Inc. has cleared land for construction of a new brick office and warehouse building at 206 South Prospect street. The building will house service and meter departments and supply stock rooms.

Ward-Stilson Expansion.

The Ward-Stilson Company at 138 South Prospect street is now installing new machinery and equipment in a factory building at North Main and George streets. Leasing this plant will more than double production capacity and give the company about 27,000 square feet in its two plants.

3 Jap Parties Run Close Race

Communists Trail Far Behind as Election Returns Come in; 9 Women Leading.

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, April 11—Three major parties tonight were running a close race for membership of Japan's 468-seat house of representatives. Communists were trailing far behind. Nine women appeared certain of election.

Scattered nationwide results from yesterday's first post-war election gave the Social Democratic party 25 seats, the Progressives 24 and the Liberals 23. The Communists were certain of only three so far. At least six independents and one people's party candidate also were elected.

Results still are too incomplete to indicate the final makeup of the house.

Premier Shidehara's cabinet sparkplug, Chief Secretary Wataru Narahashi, was elected. The press quoted Narahashi as saying he planned creation of a new political party, probably a coalition, with Shidehara as its head.

Kyuichi Tokuda, secretary general of the Communist party, who led a 14-man committee into Shidehara's office Monday to demand the premier's immediate resignation, was one of the Communists definitely elected. Another was Party Leader Sanni Nosaka, who recently returned from exile in Yenant and was one of the most personally popular of all candidates in Tokyo.

Early returns indicated a 72 per cent national vote.

MRS. WHEATCRAFT IN STATE G.O.P. GROUP

Galion Woman Is Appointed Member of Committees.

Mrs. W. W. Wheatcraft of Galion has been elected a member of the state Republican central and executive committees from the Eighth congressional district to succeed Mrs. Willa Broillier of Mt. Gilead, resigned, according to an Associated Press dispatch today.

The announcement came from State G.O.P. Chairman Fred Johnson following a meeting of the Republican state central and executive committees in Columbus yesterday.

Thirty-six of the 44 incumbents on the Republican state central and executive committees will seek reelection in the May 7, primary, the state chairman said.

Johnson, who outlined the party's plans for the fall campaign, announced the following other new appointments: Ralph Wolfe of Columbus, head of the veterans' division at state headquarters; State Representative C. William O'Neill of Marietta, head of the division of young Republican clubs and Albertus Conn of Cleveland, head of the Negro voters' division.

"HOUSE" MOVING OKAYED

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 11—Contractors received "go ahead" orders today from the federal public housing authority for transfer of trailers and dormitory buildings from government installations to relieve housing problems for veterans in several Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Michigan localities.

U. S. HOLDS OFF NEW ACTION IN BREAD CRISIS

Leaders Renew Pledge To Aid World; Anderson Fears 25 Per Cent Slash.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 11—The government held off today its decision whether more drastic steps were needed at home to tide famine areas abroad over the present critical shortage of bread.

Although the domestic conservation program launched a month ago has failed to achieve the savings sought and exports to hungry areas have fallen behind promises, officials continue to insist that foreign commitments will be met.

In the face of an agriculture department report which raised doubts whether enough wheat remained to meet both export needs and domestic demands at current levels, Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson told a news conference last night that this country would fulfill its promises.

May Have To Cut

But he said the nation would have to observe fully all phases of the wheat conservation program. And he added it might be necessary to force a 25 per cent cut in domestic use of flour between now and June 30, when the new winter wheat crop starts moving to market in volume.

The British cabinet offered yesterday to ration bread in Great Britain if the United States would do the same.

Anderson's view that this country will meet its promises abroad assumes that the government will be able to pull to market the bulk of the remaining small stocks of wheat on farms. Officials have reported that many farmers are holding on to their grain in the hope of higher prices.

Lending greater encouragement to the cabinet officer, however, was the department's crop report predicting that this year's winter wheat crop will be a record one.

Hope for Early Crop

To help meet export needs, it may be possible, Anderson said, to get some of this year's wheat moving overseas as early as the first of June, provided harvests are fairly early in Texas and Oklahoma and the wheat is speeded to ports.

He indicated, too, that it may be possible to substitute oats in some cases for wheat in export shipments. Oat stocks are of record proportions.

Government plans call for greater emphasis on the wheat conservation program started a month ago and upon other measures designed to curb use of wheat in non-food uses.

The conservation program, outlined by President Truman's famine emergency committee, called upon Americans to eat 40 per cent less wheat products during the present emergency.

Other measures to be pressed more vigorously, Anderson said, include order limiting use of wheat in livestock feed, prohibiting the use of wheat in making beer and whisky, a higher wheat flour extraction rate, and limits on inventories of millers and feed

VIEW OF QUONSET-TYPE HOUSE AVAILABLE FOR MARION VETERANS—City and Chamber of Commerce officials said today 25 of these units capable of housing 50 families are available for Marion if there is sufficient demand from veterans here. The insulated structures include two apartments consisting of four rooms and bath.

Quonset Residences Available for Veterans' Housing Here

Officials Act To Determine How Many Veterans Would Be Interested in Facilities.

The possibility developed here today that Quonset-type houses may replace trailers in the proposed reopening of the Lincoln park camp for veterans housing.

City and Chamber of Commerce officials reported they had been advised by E. J. Truthan, area engineer for the federal public housing administration in Cleveland, that 25 of the Quonset buildings capable of housing 50 families would be available to Marion.

Offer of the Quonset buildings was made after city and Chamber of Commerce officials notified the Cleveland FPHA office that sufficient demand for the trailers had not developed to justify reopening the camp.

In a survey conducted two weeks ago by Mrs. Eliza Young, in charge of the veterans' information center, approximately a dozen veterans indicated they might be interested in occupying the trailers.

Immediate Information Asked

Since the Quonset-type buildings will offer more adequate and comfortable living quarters, Mrs. Young again will assist officials here in determining how many veterans' families would be interested in occupying the Lincoln park quarters. Interested persons are asked to contact Mrs. Young immediately in the information center in The Star building.

The Quonset-type buildings are being used extensively in many communities as a temporary means of solving the housing shortage. The Marion project, if set up, will be for veterans only. Officials said the rent would be nominal and would be set up under OPA standards.

Apartment Specifications

Each unit is 20 by 24 feet in dimension. Each contains two bedrooms, one 8 by 11 and the other 8 by 13 feet. The living room is 10 by 12 feet. The kitchen is equipped with a refrigerator, sink and hot water tank. The bathrooms are equipped with lavatory, toilet and shower stall.

Mr. Truthan informed officials here the trailer camp site could be leased for installation of the buildings. It is considered the best location since sewer and utility connections already are available.

Officials also were informed the buildings now are in storage at the Marion Engineer Depot east of Marion.

"IKE" IN OHIO, SEES BIG JOB IN GERMANY

(More about Eisenhower on Pg. 4)

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 11—Occupation and de-Nazification of Germany will require "a very considerable time," General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower declared today.

The Army chief of staff made the statement at a press conference as he flew here today to be the guest of honor at a civic reception sponsored by the Cleveland Aviation club.

Eisenhower declined to estimate the occupation period in terms of years but said determination of the length of occupation "is something even the highest authorities will have to adjust from time to time.

"More is involved than just occupation," the general explained. "We have the job of making Germany impotent in terms of a war-making power and we must teach the people to learn how to get along with the rest of the world."

The five-star general also told reporters that "the Army isn't sending 18-year-olds out to walk a beat in German trouble zones."

He said 18 and 19-year-olds were being used as "fillers" in occupation zones to replace men being discharged "but every soldier in Europe isn't walking a beat like a cop."

Eisenhower said he thought the current controversy involving rights and privileges of officers and enlisted men had been greatly exaggerated.

"I don't want to be put in the position of apologizing for the 839,000 officers who did a tremendous job in the war," he asserted. "Sixty per cent of them came from the enlisted ranks. I do not say all the customs and traditions of the Army are correct but I do say a great amount of trouble sprang from a few cases."

LAUSCHE ANTI-SLOT DRIVE HITS EAGLES

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 11—The first slot machines successfully seized by state liquor department agents since Gov. Frank J. Lausche ordered such action last fall were ordered destroyed today by the state liquor board.

Three machines were displayed as evidence before the board as Crooksville Aerie 1979 of the Fraternal Order of Eagles pleaded guilty to charges of permitting their use and also to a charge of unlawful possession of whisky and gin. The organization holds a license to sell 3.2 beer.

Counsel for the aerie, Dale Rapp and Richard McCann of Columbus, pleaded for leniency on grounds it was the first time the club had been in trouble. Rapp said the liquor had been bought for a dance.

Liquor agents seized 16 machines in a series of Steubenville raids several weeks ago, but the owners regained possession through a replevin action in the municipal court here. Frank W. Kleinfelder, liquor enforcement chief, then ordered that machines seized in the future be brought immediately to Columbus.

"Vic" Donahey's Rites Held in Home County

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 11—The body of Vic Donahey was taken first to Saint Mel at New Philadelphia today as scores of political figures and friends joined the mourning of the 72-year-old former governor's funeral.

There, where "Honest Vic" left his high school books for a printer's trade and started in politics as a township clerk, his six sons came to lower him beside the graves of his father and mother. Services were to be conducted at the Methodist church and then adjourned.

SECRETARY TO HOLD SEPARATE CONFERENCES

Schwellenbach Avoids Taking Over Mines in Effort To Restore Negotiations.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 11—The government struggled today to pump new life into the soft coal talks choked off by John L. Lewis, but without resorting to seizure of the strike-bound mines.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, stepping into the breach left by Lewis's dramatic walkout, arranged separate afternoon conferences with the operators' and miners' negotiating committees.

The labor secretary and his top assistants most experienced in postwar labor disputes will try to revive the conversations which came to a sudden halt yesterday with a declaration from Lewis that "to cavil further is futile."

Exits With Flourish

"We trust that time, as it shrinks your purse, may modify your niggardly and anti-social propensities," the bulky United Mine Workers chief snorted as he gathered together his papers.

Then, slamming on his hat, he grunted, "Good morning, gentlemen," and left. His committee of district presidents and UMW officers followed silently.

The operators, hailed by the move, got out a formal statement contending Lewis has "brazenly refused to enter into any semblance of collective bargaining."

Challenging "the right of any labor organization to stall and play politics when a basic American industry is shut down," the statement expressed hope, however, that Lewis "will change his attitude and resume meetings."

The negotiating conference convened March 12 at Lewis's request to frame a new contract. Subcommittees took over actual discussions a week later, then the UMW president terminated his old working agreement and the strike was called April 1.

The operators said Lewis "has engaged in time-killing trivia with the obvious intent to stalling negotiations and creating a national crisis."

Lewis, contending the operators have refused to give serious consideration to his demand for a health and welfare fund and for safer mines, has insisted that agreement in principle on those points is an essential preliminary to any discussion of wages and hours.

The producers have held firm that wages and hours form the major issues and should be settled first.

Yesterday's break was precipitated by the operators' fourth rejection of Lewis' motion that the negotiators formally report back to the full wage conference of several hundred miners and operators that they were in disagreement.

Schwellenbach meeting with the operators' group, was scheduled for 1:30 p. m. Lewis and his associates were asked to appear at 4 p. m.

Ickes Criticizes Lewis' Demands

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 11—Harold L. Ickes today criticized the United Mine Workers' demand for a health and welfare fund as "economically unsound and governmentally unwise."

The former cabinet officer mentioned the matter in indorsing a national health insurance program before a senate labor subcommittee.

Ickes said the proposal would give the miners "what would amount to extra-governmental power of taxation to private individuals."

"If such a power should be granted to the coal industry," Ickes added in a statement read to the committee, "it would logically follow that there would be the same right in other industries. * * *

"If adopted by other major industries and unions in the country, the plan put forth by Mr. John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America might * * * result in a hospital on one side of the street devoted to treating coal miners for silicosis and a second hospital on the other side of the street devoted to treating cement factory workers suffering from the same disease.

"Personally, I do not feel that the country can afford so wasteful a duplication of medical service."

New G.O.P. Chief Airs Policies, Asks Democrats "Tell Truth"

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 11—Republican Chairman Carroll Reece enumerated his party's stand on major issues today in an open letter to Democratic Chairman Robert E. Hannegan, then threw this question at his political counterpart:

"When will the administration begin telling the truth to the American people about how their government is being operated?"

Shortly after his election as head of the G.O.P. national committee April 1, Reece was challenged by Hannegan in an open letter to give a "long overdue clarification of your party's policies on vital questions."

The Tennesseean responded last night by citing the declaration of party principles adopted last December by Republican members of congress and later indorsed and augmented by the party's national committee in Chicago and Washington.

Wants the "Truth"

He then challenged Hannegan to tell the "truth" about what was being done in the foreign and domestic field.

Reece said after the Potsdam conference last summer, President Truman "following the practice of his predecessor, assured the nation no secret agreements of any kind had been made during that conference." Then the G.O.P. chief quoted from the New York Herald Tribune of Oct. 11, 1945, that Secretary of State Byrnes had "acknowledged" that Mr. Truman "entered into a secret agreement at Potsdam on partition of the Montreaux convention and said the United States fully intends to keep its pledge to confer with Turkey on the future status of the Dardanelles."

"Thus, in this matter of making secret agreements and then denying their existence until the march of events forced disclosure of the truth," Reece said, "Mr. Truman was apparently following the established practice of the administration."

Listing several "secret agreements" which he said the late President Roosevelt entered into at Big Three conferences, the Tennessean asked: "What other secret agreements have been made and remain for the future to disclose?"

OPINIONS ON FROST DAMAGE VARY IN OHIO

Some Areas Including Marion Report Fruit Hit.

Opinion varied today on the damage done locally as Jack Frost pulled a sneak attack on Ohio last night. Estimates ran the gamut from optimism to extreme pessimism.

Orchards in central and northeastern Ohio were hit, and fruit growers in the Columbiana-Trumbull-Stark county area expressed fear that tree buds which escaped yesterday's attack were killed this morning, The Associated Press reports.

From where I sit — by Joe Marsh

Professor Zogi, The Magician Marvelous!

Professor Zogi, the magician, came to our town Saturday and put on a performance for the benefit of the Community.

It was quite a show! Among other things, the professor holds a pitcher in his hands, and asks folks what they'd have to drink. Ma Hopkins asks for buttermilk and the professor promptly pours her a rich, creamy glassful.

Then Zeb Collins asks for cider, and out of the same pitcher comes a mug of cider. Doc Hollister next calls for beer—and presto, from the pitcher comes a sparkling glass of beer, white collar and all!

"That goes to show," says Doc, astonished, "that it takes a magician to satisfy all tastes."

From where I sit, the professor has a mighty good act ...one that points a moral too. Tastes differ—but people can have a friendly, happy time enjoying the beverage that each prefers—and being tolerant of one another's preferences.

Toledo Official Urges Police To Keep Up War Against Crime

Maurice J. Meyer Principal Speaker at Annual Banquet of Marion County Lodge.

More than 100 Marion business and professional men, associate members of Marion county lodge, Fraternal Order of Police, joined police and active members of the city police force and members of the highway patrol in the lodge's annual banquet Wednesday evening at Hotel Harding.

Guests included Lt. S. D. Augenstein of the highway patrol; Chief of Police William E. Marks; Capt. H. L. Dowler; Maurice J. Meyer, safety director of Toledo, who delivered the principal address; Z. G. McClenathan, president of the Marion lodge; Bob Hall, entertainer from Detroit who acted as master of ceremonies; Capt. William Murphy of the Columbus police department; Tom O'Conner of the Cleveland office of the FBI; William Calhoun of the Mansfield office of the FBI, and Howell Tice of the Toledo police department.

The program was arranged under direction of E. H. Hoffman, chairman of the social committee, assisted by C. H. Hardin and L. W. Shumaker. Invocation was delivered by Rev. William J. Spickerman, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church; benediction was delivered by Rev. Henry Schaef, former pastor of St. Paul's English Lutheran church.

In the main address of the evening, Maurice J. Meyer emphasized that the policeman should be an active member of his community. He should join civic organizations, be active in clubs, and take particular interest in boys' activities. A policeman should be alert, neat, at ease and courteous, Meyer said, since he often is the first contact a stranger has with a community and deals almost exclusively with people who are in some kind of difficulty, whether or not it is their fault. Meyer said he would always remember Marion because of the helpfulness of a policeman here 33 years ago, who lent him 25 cents when he was low in funds to enable him to buy a train ticket. Finally he told the assembled law enforcement agents to "keep the lid down," to prepare their cases when they go into court, and to be unrelenting of their enforcement of the law against criminals, vice-mongers, and racketeers.

Introductions and running comments on the proceedings were made by toastmaster Bob Hall, who spoke extemporaneously and in rhyme. He summarized Meyer's talk in rhyme and kept the program moving at a rapid pace with his continual "ribbing" of the speakers and audience. He gave a demonstration of "double talk", which he said originated in Detroit 25 years ago and which was called at that time "unfinished conversation."

FIVE-YEAR-OLD Ann McEachern earns $2 a day drawing jurors' names because she hasn't yet learned to read.

5-Year-Old Girl Can't Read, So She Is Given Court Job

Associated Press Newsfeatures

COLUMBIA, S. C. — Five-year-old Ann McEachern of Columbia is a veteran court attache despite her tender years.

For two years, she has had the job of drawing jurors' names when juries are selected in the circuit courts for Richland county.

She gets $2 a day when court is in session.

When not actually busy with her duties, Ann just sits quietly and watches proceedings with much curiosity.

Ann got her job when her predecessor reached the mature age of six and had to go to school.

Children are picked for the job because state law prescribes that it must be given to a person who cannot read.

IRANIAN PEACE TALKS BELIEVED IN SESSION

By The Associated Press

TEHRAN, April 11—Developments in Tehran indicated today representatives of Kurdistan, Azerbaijan and the Iranian central government might be conferring somewhere in the mountains near Karaj in the first step toward re-establishing Iran's national unity.

The developments were:

1. A cabinet member told reporters that Azerbaijan—where a self-proclaimed autonomous government has been established—had selected a "peace delegation" at a special two-day session of parliament which ended yesterday at Tabriz.

2. An influential Kurdish landowner from near Saujbulagh (Mehabad)—capital of the so-called "Independent Kurdish Republic"—said he had acted as intermediary between the central government and Ghazi Mohammed, head of the Iranian Kurds and deputy chief of state for "Greater Kurdistan." He said the Kurds were asked to send representatives to a meeting "near Karaj this week."

3. Prince Mozaffar Firouz, director of propaganda for the central government, said he might hold a press conference in a "day or two."

4. A British parliamentary delegation which had planned to leave Iran yesterday, suddenly postponed its return to London and an embassy official said the members of the delegation "went for a picnic near Karaj."

Group To Consider Hiring Dairy Tester

Members of the Marion Dairy Service Cooperative will meet in the office of County Agriculture Agent Arthur H. Smith next Tuesday at 8 p. m. to discuss plans for employing a dairy cattle tester for Marion county.

The cooperative also will determine its total membership and decide on how extensive a program it may develop. The organization calls for approximately 100 members, and directors are hopeful the number may be reached by next Tuesday.

Two types of dairy testing programs are provided for in the organization's constitution. The first program, known as the dairy herd improvement program, calls for butterfat content tests for each cow to be made periodically by the dairy tester. The second program, known as the owner-sampler program, will permit the dairyman to take his own milk samples and have them sent to the tester who will make the tests.

Officers of the cooperative are Harold Dennis of Prospect, president; Harold Patrick of Pleasant township, vice president; LeRoy Sowers of Green Camp, secretary and Robert Denzer of Waldo, treasurer.

CHINESE OCCUPY MANCHURIAN CAPITAL

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, April 11 — A semiofficial Central news agency dispatch from Changchun today reported the Chinese flag was flying over that former Japanese army headquarters in Manchuria, Changchun, the Manchurian capital, was reported evacuated by Russian headquarters.

It also reported 3,000 members of the Kirin province peace preservation corps broke through Communist lines to reach Changchun after having fought Communists along the Changchun-Kirin rail line.

Another semiofficial dispatch from Tientsin said that more than 300 passengers were killed Monday night when Communist forces mined a train near Wanchiatun on the Peiping-Mukden railway.

Meantime, two moves were made here to settle Government-Communist differences.

Sun Fo, president of the legislative council, said the national central planning board had completed a projected plan for streamlining the provincial organization of China by splitting the provinces.

He said splitting the provinces might solve political problems in several states which are half Communist, half pro-government.

The Democratic league, China's third party, sought National party and Communist approval of a proposal for ending civil strife in Manchuria.

FROST

had not developed far enough to suffer heavy damage.

The weather bureau had forecast cloudy weather for the night, but in some areas the clouds disappeared and frost descended. The clouds had been depended upon to hold warm air over the earth.

The temperature dropped as low as 19 at Warren, while Youngstown reported 24, Akron 25 and Columbus 30. Heavy frost was reported also at Canton, Lima and Ashland. The low in Marion was 27 degrees.

The Hartman farm, large fruit grower at Columbus, reported its grapes were hard hit and peach trees were damaged, although smudge pots were kept burning during the night.

Clouds and wind prevented frost on the Cincinnati area, where the temperature dropped to 35.

In the Cleveland area one orchardist reported his sweet cherries were virtually ruined. The damage to apples was not severe. The damage to peaches can not be ascertained for a week.

TOLEDO VOTES TODAY ON CITY INCOME TAX

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., April 11—Citizens of Toledo voted today on whether to retain the one per cent income tax imposed upon them March 1 by the city council.

The tax, a new departure in municipal financing in Ohio, is estimated will raise $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 a year. The funds would be used to liquidate Toledo's depression-incurred debt and provide additional revenue for operating expenses and city improvements.

Every person working in Toledo must pay one per cent of his salary, wage or commission until Dec. 31, 1950. The levy also applies to all business and corporation profits earned within the city.

A record number of 136,000 voters was qualified to vote.

Balloting day arrived after a warm campaign between proponents of the tax and the opponents, who include the CIO Political Action Committee.

U. S. To Back Full UN Hearing of Charges Against Franco

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 11—The United States will support a full hearing before the United Nations security council on Poland's indictment of the Franco regime in Spain as a haven of fugitive German scientists working on atomic age weapons, a spokesman indicated today.

The British delegation was expected to join in this stand, with both taking the position that Generalissimo Franco was Spain's domestic problem but that they were willing to hear all the arguments in open session before voting on whether Spain constituted charged in Poland's note to the an actionable menace to peace, as security council.

Spain Sends Agents

As the world organization, scheduled to reconvene Monday, faced its second major test, representatives of the Spanish Republican government appeared here.

Fernando De Los Rios, former foreign minister of the government in exile, just arrived from Paris, said he had made no formal contact with the United Nations, but that "probably one of the delegations friendly to the Spanish cause will get us into the meetings as Spanish observers."

Spain is not a member of the United Nations and the question arose immediately as to whether the council might call a representative of the Madrid government to the council table as it did for Iran when that country's troubles with Russia were being discussed.

Meanwhile the council had before it a dossier charging that from 50,000 to 100,000 Germans were now in Spain; that Nazi holdings in Spain, open and cloaked, ranged from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000; that Spain had become an "armed camp" with a standing army of from 600,000 to 700,000 and that Nazi scientists were engaged there in research on atomic energy and jet propulsion.

The report was drawn up by eight organizations, including the Nation Associates and the CIO.

Poland's indictment of Spain—characterized by the Spanish press as Russian-inspired — was brought before the security council late yesterday under a United Nations charter provision which states that the organization "shall insure that states not members of the United Nations act in accordance with the principles of the organization so far as may be necessary for the maintenance of international peace and security."

Not Definite Yet

Although Andrei A. Gromyko, who yesterday was relieved of his ambassadorial duties by Moscow to free him for full-time work as the Soviet delegate to the security council, has not identified himself with the Polish charges, conference observers fully expected he would give his support to Poland in pressing for action.

Moscow announced last night Gromyko was being replaced as ambassador to the United States by Charge d'Affaires Nikolai V. Novikov.

The Polish charges, declaring that fugitive German scientists were developing ultra-modern weapons under Generalissimo Francisco Franco's protection, implied that such "new means of warfare" were designed to meet the competition of the atomic age. The Polish delegation declined to elaborate on the nature of the weapons.

By withholding the Polish charges against Spain until yesterday, Polish Delegate Oscar Lange assured priority for discussion of Gromyko's demand that the Iranian question be dismissed when the council resumes its sessions at 3 p. m. Monday.

Gromyko's demand is opposed by the United States, Britain and others, who desire to hold the matter open for review after May 6, the deadline for withdrawal of Red army troops from oil-rich Iran.

Basis of Charge

The Polish indictment charges that Franco is giving asylum to fugitive war criminals, Nazi personnel and assets and "allows and promotes scientific research by German scientists engaged in devising new means of warfare."

The American and British delegations here were expected to maintain the position that Spain was Franco's domestic problem but that they were willing to hear Poland's arguments in open council session before voting whether Spain constituted an actionable menace to peace.

COLUMBUS BUILDING PROJECTS ARE HALTED

COLUMBUS, O., April 11 — Three industrial and commercial construction projects under way in Columbus were halted yesterday by Leonard Dudley, regional compliance manager of the Civilian Production Administration, who charged they were in violation of a March 26 federal order freezing such construction to permit concentration on dwellings.

John A. Kight, secretary of the Columbus Builders Exchange, said the projects ordered stopped were an industrial building, a store room in Bexley, and an automobile agency building.

Kight said Dudley, in telegrams to the contractors, accused them of an "apparent" violation of the freezing order and warned them they were subject to criminal proceedings if they continued.

Contractors, Kight said, were advised to seek recourse from the district CPA office at 1037 North High street in Columbus, but that the district office can take no action until a committee of five citizens is appointed to help process applications for industrial and commercial buildings.

Louis W. Gehring, manager of the district office, which has 47 central and southern Ohio counties under its jurisdiction, said he is powerless to act on the applications until heads of the CPA in Washington appoint the advisory committee.

Gehring said he has received applications for industrial and commercial buildings totaling several millions since the stop order went into effect.

"You will recall, I am sure, how this double dealing with the public, if it did not actually precipitate the General Motors strike, certainly had a substantial effect in prolonging that strike and making it more costly to both the employer and the employes."

Class Hears Talk On Religion and Science

The Bible can be approached scientifically, Dr. S. M. Ingmire, pastor of Epworth Methodist church, told the Wednesday Noon Bible class in its weekly meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

It is a case book on religious experiences and can be approached objectively, he said. He declared that contrary to a sometimes expressed opinion, the scientist is not always ahead of the theologian. He pointed out that atomic scientists have said religion must supplement science or science will destroy the world. In the realm of ethics, he said, a scientific approach does not tell one what is right and wrong but only that there is a right and wrong; religion helps the individual to make a choice.

The program was arranged by Harry Mautz, chairman of the program committee for April.

REDS APPOINT NEW AMBASSADOR TO U. S.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 11—Diplomatic officials hailed Russia's appointment of a new ambassador to the United States as a fresh sign today of Soviet faith in the United Nations.

Moscow last night announced appointment of Nikolai V. Novikov as ambassador in Washington, succeeding Andrei A. Gromyko, Russia's permanent representative on the UN security council.

Diplomatic officials who related Novikov's appointment to Russia's regard for the UN reasoned this way:

If the Soviet Union took UN lightly it would not have assigned an official of Gromyko's stature and experience to devote full time to the council job.

The UN job is one for which the special assignments of the black-haired, 38-year-old Soviet diplomat during the last three years have prepared him.

He was at Dumbarton Oaks in 1944; at Yalta, San Francisco and Potsdam in 1945. When the UN preparatory commission began its work in London late last year, Gromyko headed the Soviet delegation.

When the UN general assembly and security council met for the first time in London early this year, Gromyko served as chief Soviet delegate until the belated arrival of Andrei Vyshinsky, Soviet deputy foreign minister.

Stocky and bespectacled, Novikov enjoys cordial relations with state department officials and Washington diplomats. Reserved, soft-spoken and reticent in his dealings with the press, he nevertheless is regarded, in the words of one veteran diplomat, as "a good guy — intelligent, pleasant and easy to get along with."

STATE DEPARTMENT HEAD GIVES TALK TO Y'S MEN

Plans for Expanding Ohio Hunting and Fishing Outlined.

Guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Y's Men's club Wednesday night in the Y. M. C. A. was Edwin P. Rinehart of Marietta. Mr. Rinehart is employed with the wildlife division of the state conservation department.

Mr. Rinehart said land is being acquired throughout the state for wildlife conservation and more inland lakes are being provided to make for better hunting and fishing. He said that by having more inland lakes, more duck hunting will be provided in different parts of the state. He voiced the belief that if Ohio provides these facilities, more hunting will be done here by persons from other states.

UN General Staff Organizing World Military Police Force

By LARRY HAUCK
Associated Press News Writer

NEW YORK, April 11—In the quiet of a penthouse atop a mid-town hotel, some 20 men are laying down plans for organization of a military force which ultimately may develop into the most powerful the world ever has seen.

These experts, moving with all the caution and secrecy their job demands, compose the military staff committee of the United Nations.

As the military organ of the security council, the committee members make up a general staff for the international police force whose task will be to prevent and, if need be, suppress aggression.

In the words of the UN charter, their duty is to "advise and assist the security council on all questions relating to the security council's military requirements for the maintenance of international peace and security, the employment and command of forces at its disposal, the regulation of armaments, and possible disarmament."

Have Wide Powers

An indication of the wide latitude that eventually will go to this small group of men can be seen in the charter provisions giving the security council full power to use armed force to give effect to its decisions in cases where it considers that such measures as severance of diplomatic relations, economic relations and communications have failed.

Chief of staff of the big five—United States, United Kingdom, Russia, France and China—are permanent members of this committee.

The current U. S. representation includes Gen. George C. Kenney, Air Forces; Lt.-Gen. M. B. Ridgway, Army; Admiral R. K. Turner, Navy, and Capt. Denys Knoll, Navy, secretary.

Speculation naturally centers around the size of this gigantic military force and how much the 51 member nations each will contribute in manpower and equipment. Most guesses have leaned to the theory that the United States will contribute heavily in air and sea units, with perhaps the largest share of the ground forces being drawn from Russia.

Article 43 Studied

Under orders from the security council, the committee is examining specifically from a military point of view Article 43 of the charter, which says in part:

"All members of the United Nations, in order to contribute to the maintenance of international peace and security, undertake to make available to the security council, on its call and in accordance with a special agreement or agreements, armed forces, assistance, and facilities, including rights of passage, necessary for the purpose of maintaining international peace and security.

"Such agreement or agreements shall govern the numbers and types of forces, their degree of readiness and general location, and the nature of the facilities and assistance to be provided."

OHIOAN TAKES POKE AT MEAT RACKETEERS

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 11—Black market racketeers, paying above-ceiling prices, are preventing packing houses from getting meat supplies, an attorney for the Canton Provision Co. contends.

"OPA ceilings don't let us compete with the black marketeer in our areas," Donald K. Merwin, the company representative, declared yesterday as testimony was concluded in the cases of the Canton concern and 16 other northern Ohio packing companies charged with paying prices above OPA ceilings in purchase of cattle in 1945.

The OPA is seeking an injunction to halt the alleged violators.

Merwin testified that dozens of small, "hickory limb" slaughterers have sprung up on a fly-by-night scale with much of their meat being diverted to illegal channels.

"Now, while our agents offer some farmer $16 a hundredweight for a steer, some racketeer will stand beside him and offer $20 and get the animal," he asserted.

FUNERAL RITES SET FOR EDISON JR. HIGH PUPIL

Roger N. Hart, 14, Dies Suddenly of Heart Attack.

Funeral services for Roger Newton Hart, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Hart of 888 Sheridan road, will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. in the Merle H. Hughes mortuary on Mt. Vernon avenue and at 2:30 in St. Paul's English Lutheran church. Dr. Henry Schaeffer, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in Marion cemetery.

The ninth grade Edison Junior High school pupil was stricken with a heart attack Wednesday noon as he was on his way home from a vocational conference for high school students held at the Palace theater. He died in an ambulance on the way to City hospital. Friends may call at the funeral home after 8 tonight.

Born July 3, 1931 in Marion, he was a son of Clarence O. and Neve Belle Collins Hart, the father a native of Crestline and the mother of Broadway. He was a member of St. Paul's church and was a Star Scout of Boy Scout Troop No. 1.

Surviving besides his parents are two sisters, Mrs. Guy Arnett of Dayton and Mrs. Elwood Woodling of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Iran Case Rated Vital To Future of UN's Prestige

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The opposition which has developed in the United Nations security council to Russia's demand that the Iranian (Persian) issue be dropped from the council's agenda should not in itself be interpreted as an expression of distrust of Moscow.

The Soviet Union's promise to take her troops out of Persia by May 6 isn't being questioned, and it would be useful if this point were emphasized in the council's debate. If Moscow hadn't agreed with Tehran that all forces should be withdrawn, then Russia's position would indeed have been under challenge.

DewittMackenzie

If the security council itself were asked to define the position, I believe the answer would have to be something like this: The Russo-Persian affair isn't a personal matter between these two countries. Persia is of great strategical importance in the realignment of the zones of influence in Europe, the Mediterranean area and the Middle East. Her international relations therefore become a matter of moment to the entire world.

Impartial Body

The security council is an impartial body which is in the service of all the United Nations. It is a trustee of the common interests, and for that reason it has no more license to write off an unfinished transaction than would a banker have the right to deviate from the accepted practices in handling public accounts.

This being so, the council's retention of the Russo-Persian matter on the agenda is a matter of straightway business and doesn't ipso facto raise any question of Russia's sincerity. Surely the council would lay itself open to charges of being remiss in duty and of playing favorites if it didn't complete the transaction, especially since little Persia wants the UN to see the thing through.

As a matter of fact, one would think that all nations would be delighted to have the council acting as observer in this important case. It not only safeguards the interests of all parties, but vastly increases the stature of the United Nations right at the beginning of its career.

And if anybody thinks that isn't worth while, let him look across to Geneva where they are burying a League of Nations which died from lack of exercise.

News from London

In any event there is good news from London about relations among the Big Four—Russia, Britain, France and America. The foreign ministers of these powers are to meet in Paris on the twenty-fifth of this month to consider the European peace treaties over which they have been deadlocked. American and British officials who have been working on the treaty drafts indicate that they think Russia's acceptance of U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes' proposal for the conference is a sign that the atmosphere among the four powers may be clearing.

That's encouraging, for each time an obstacle is overcome or a suspicion is killed, it strengthens the whole United Nations peace set-up.

OFFICIALS SURVEY CONDITION OF ROADS

Find Some County Highways in Bad Condition.

Condition of Marion county roads is below average, according to a statement from County Engineer Walter W. Johnson today, after he and county commissioners completed a four-day check of hard surface roads in the county.

While some roads are in fair condition others are badly in need of repair, the county engineer said, and many need drag or surface treating.

Inspection of county roads was made in preparation for a summer surface treating program. Material and cost estimates are now being made by the county engineer's office and will be submitted to commissioners for approval in about two weeks.

Included in this summer's program will be approximately eight miles of township roads recently taken over by the county at the request of township trustees. The roads are in Claridon, Richland, Pleasant, Waldo, Montgomery and Green Camp townships.

"Our contract expires Friday and unless a settlement is reached a strike will probably be called," said Gerhart. "The company's best offer was a 10-cent-an-hour increase and we are standing firm on our demand for a 25-cent raise." He did not disclose present hourly rates.

Helen Keller Plans New Work Offering Help To Deaf Blind

By ADELAIDE KERR
Associated Press Writer

"The ones who are in real darkness are the psychiatric cases from the war," said Helen Keller, who has been blind and deaf since early childhood. "It is the only real darkness I know of—a troubled mind struggling back to normal living. I do not consider myself in the dark. I look on my life as a full, normal, happy life."

The shadow that had crossed Miss Keller's face at mention of the war-wounded, lifted. Again her face shone with the joy of living as it had throughout an hour's conversation. Seated in the Helen Keller room of the American Foundation for the Blind in New York, she had been discussing her past year's work, which took her to 50 hospitals in various parts of the country to encourage those blinded or deafened by war—work which service hospitals called a great morale builder.

Then Miss Keller launched into a vivid description of the new work she is beginning—rehabilitation of the deaf blind. She will carry it on in addition to her hospital work for veterans.

To New Field

"In the work for the deaf blind we are really blazing a trail in a new field in which very little has been done," she said, speaking slowly but understandably. "Therefore we must go slowly and work on individual cases, for the deaf blind are like other human beings, no two are alike. As far as the Foundation has been able to verify cases, there are about 2,000 deaf blind in the United States. But I am glad to report that, as far as we know, none resulted from the war.

"We shall work through the Committee for the Deaf Blind, a new adjunct of the American Foundation for the Blind. The director of this new department is Mrs. Dorothy Bryan. She will seek out every deaf blind person in every town and city and study all the existing services within his area for his rehabilitation.

"Then local community and welfare groups will be educated in the best way to serve the deaf blind. Measures will be taken to make sure they are not confined to institutions or neglected in their homes. They will be brought to places where they can be trained for usefulness and reasonable happiness. So far as it is physically and mentally possible, our aim is that they should be self-supporting."

Miss Keller paused a moment to reflect and then went on:

"The outstanding place of this kind is the Industrial Home for the Blind in Brooklyn. Last year their fifteen deaf blind did 80 per cent of the operations the blind do. They are fully self-supporting and their 1945 earnings averaged $27 a week. They made mops, brooms, rubber mats and did wood working and various assembly jobs. They did both hand operations and machine work. In the past too few schools for the blind have given special attention to the deaf blind. But it is our hope that other schools will do what the Brooklyn Industrial Home for the Blind has done."

Spending an hour with Helen Keller, now 65, is an experience never to be forgotten. Her unquenchable spirit charges a whole room. As she sat, smartly dressed in a black suit and a pansy blue blouse caught with a pearl pin, every eye in the room was focused on her as though magnetized. Every one calls her "Helen." She follows directions and requests with swift cooperation.

Shows Good Cheer

Her conversation is peppered with humor and laughs. When a photographer's bulb flashed in the midst of her conversation, she started and laughed. (She did not see the flash, but felt its heat.) Questions put to her are quickly relayed to her by her companion, Miss Polly Thompson, through the manual alphabet. Miss Keller replies with such eagerness that, though her words come rather slowly, one has the impression that they are tumbling out like the drops of a spraying fountain.

"To do what we hope to do for the deaf blind will take years, funds and carefully collected data," she said. "The Foundation has set aside some funds for this work. My part will be to raise more through lecturing and writing and to stimulate legislation for the benefit of the deaf blind."

Then she slipped her hand through Polly Thompson's arm and, with her face alight, Helen Keller walked swiftly and surely from the room.

MT. GILEAD'S LEGION MEMBERSHIP SOARS

Post Receives Citation from National Headquarters.

Special to The Star

IBERIA—T. P. Johnston American Legion Post No. 329 at Mt. Gilead under the leadership of Romie Winget and Lyle Little has staged a two month campaign which has more than doubled the post's membership. The Legion members were divided into two teams and the losers will entertain the successful team some time in May according to Ray R. Bennington, Adjutant. Mr. Bennington recently received a letter from the office of the national adjutant stating that the post has been awarded the 1946 most distinguished service citation for early membership achievement.

Salem W. Royston, post commander, has also received a personal letter from National Commander John Stelle, commending the Mt. Gilead Post. "Present indications are that this year the membership will far exceed any previous record," Mr. Stelle writes. "The Legion has pledged itself for adequate care for the disabled, the widows and orphans of veterans, gainful employment for those who have served and a national defense program which will assure future peace."

What's for Dessert, Mo?

CHERRY NUT PARFAIT . . . Makes a party of a meal . . .

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

A really pretty dessert can make a party out of any dinner. Or served by itself it can be a party. We hope you have parfait glasses in which to serve the dessert suggested here, but if you haven't, glass sauce dishes will do nicely. In any event, the serving piece should be something which shows how pretty the parfait is.

Cherry Nut Parfait

1½ teaspoons plain, unflavored gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, ¼ cup granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 egg whites, 1 cup heavy cream or evaporated milk, whipped, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup drained canned cherries or maraschino cherries, 1 cup chopped almonds or other nuts, 2 teaspoons almond extract.

Soften gelatine in ¼ cup cold water. Boil sugar, salt and ¼ cup water to the soft ball stage and pour slowly into egg whites, beating constantly. Dissolve softened gelatine in the egg mixture. Set in a bowl of ice water and stir until mixture is cool and begins to thicken. Add cherries, or maraschino cherries, chopped, the nuts and almond extract. Fold in cream or evaporated milk, which has been whipped with the vanilla. Turn into refrigerator trays and freeze without stirring.

Note:

This recipe may be served plain, or combined with any of the variations indicated below:

1. Tutti Frutti: Add 1 cup candied fruit which has been soaked in fruit juice or syrup.

2. Peach Parfait: Use only ½ cup water (instead of the half cup) and add a cup of mashed peaches and ¼ cup orange juice.

3. Pistachio Parfait: Flavor with pistachio and color light green. A cup of pistachio nuts may be added in place of the cherries and nuts suggested above.

4. Raspberry or Strawberry Parfait: Add a cup of mashed crushed berries in place of the cherries and nuts.

5. Macaroon Parfait: Add a cup of dried and pounded macaroons and garnish with cherries.

The parfait should be accompanied by cakes or cookies of some sort for the final party touch.

STOCKS TURN LOWER IN LIGHT TRADING

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 11—Stocks turned irregularly lower in today's market although volume was light.

Pivotal steels, rails and motors were hesitant from the start, and gains registered by some issues affected by special situations failed to rally support elsewhere.

After a fairly active opening, the ticker tape dawdled frequently. Prices were somewhat under the opening in most instances near the fourth hour.

Lack of favorable news developments, mild profit-cashing, concern over effects on earnings of current and threatened labor walkouts, and talk of imposition of new credit controls as an anti-inflationary step served to hold many buyers on the sidelines.

NAZI POLICE LEADER OPENS DEATH FIGHT

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, April 11—Tall, saber-scarred Ernst Kaltenbrunner, chief of the Nazi security police, opened his fight for life today with a declaration to the international military tribunal that "I know the hatred of the world is directed against me."

He said he was the target of this hatred partly because both Heinrich Himmler and Himmler's Gestapo chief were dead, "leaving me the only man to face the world and answer for them."

Kaltenbrunner said he was ready to assume responsibility for the acts of the police he headed "as far as they occurred under my actual control and as far as I knew about them."

He specifically denied knowledge of the execution at the Mauthausen concentration camp on Jan. 24, 1945 of an Allied group which included Joseph Morton Jr., of The Associated Press.

When reminded that the prosecution had introduced a statement by the Mauthausen camp's adjutant that the teleprinter order for the executions bore his signature, Kaltenbrunner replied:

"Such authority was held only by Hitler and Himmler. It's quite impossible that this incident could ever have been brought to my knowledge."

He said he had learned that Gestapo Chief Mueller and others sent out orders bearing his signature and added:

"Not once did I sign or even see a single protective custody arrest order * * *. The tribunal may not believe me, but this was the true state of affairs," he said.

Earlier the tribunal was told in an affidavit that Kaltenbrunner had attempted to negotiate peace through American agents in Portugal and Switzerland in 1943 and encouraged Hitler to seek a peace settlement through the Vatican.

Affidavits from a former Gestapo officer and a former foreign intelligence expert of the Nazi police lauded the defendant as a moderate man who opposed the stringent measures of his boss, Heinrich Himmler.

One affidavit said Kaltenbrunner was without authority over the concentration camps and lacked power to order executions under any circumstances.

ARMED FORCES PAY RAISE PLAN CHANGED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 11 — Withdrawing its previous recommendation for a flat $400 pay raise for all service personnel, a house military subcommittee today voted a sliding scale of increases starting with a 50 per cent boost for buck privates.

The group recommended, subject to full committee approval, these raises for Army personnel and men of corresponding rank in other services:

Buck privates, $50 to $75 monthly; first class privates, $54 to $80; corporals, $66 to $90; sergeants, $78 to $100; staff sergeants, $96 to $115; technical sergeants, $114 to $135; first and master sergeants, $138 to $165.

Second lieutenants, $1,800 to $2,100 annually; first lieutenants, $2,000 to $2,400; captains $2,400 to $2,640; majors, $3,000 to $3,300; lieutenant colonels, $3,500 to $3,850; colonels, $4,000 to $4,400.

For Army chief warrant officers the committee recommended a raise from $2,100 to $2,520 annually, while for naval petty officers it approved a monthly increase from $126 to $150.

Senate Group Asks Year Longer Draft

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 11—The senate military committee recommended today a full year extension of the draft act.

At the same time the committee sent along four different service pay increase plans for senate consideration.

Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) said the pay boost proposals represented a committee "compromise."

Action came after a three-hour closed door session which began by a refusal to go along with the house military committee's recommendation of a nine-month extension of the draft beyond May 15.

STARK TELLS PROBERS OF WARNING TO JAPS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 11—Adm. Harold R. Stark said today he probably consulted President Roosevelt before drafting a suggestion for the Dutch early in December 1941 that they tell Japan not to cross a certain line under penalty of attack.

Stark, 1941 chief of operations, declared this did not necessarily mean war for the United States. He insisted, under questioning by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) the constitutional requirement that only congress can declare war was observed at every step.

The retired admiral testified before the senate-house committee investigating the Pearl Harbor attack of December 7, 1941.

Prior to that, the investigators heard that President Truman had denied an appeal by Adm. Husband E. Kimmel to examine what Ferguson described as a "super-secret" file of the late President Roosevelt's messages.

Ferguson asked pointedly whether Stark consulted with Mr. Roosevelt before drawing up the suggestion for the Dutch. The senator called this a most important point.

"I don't think I would have (drawn it up) without consulting the President," Stark said. "I can't say absolutely that I did. I think I did. It had to involve the state department and things of that sort would have to be taken up with the President."

Ensign John Phelan, representing Kimmel, told the committee about President Truman's rejection of the former Pacific fleet commander's request to look at the Roosevelt message file. He said Mr. Truman wrote that the committee alone had authority to examine such files.

COUNTY RED CROSS NOMINATIONS SET

Annual Meeting May 8; Fund Near Goal.

A nominating committee was named for the annual meeting to be held May 8, and reports on the Red Cross Fund campaign and other activities given at a meeting of the executive board of the Marion County Chapter of the American Red Cross, Wednesday at Hotel Harding.

Slightly more than $1,800 is needed to meet the county's goal of $38,300, the reports show. While the drive, held in March, is closed, many of the volunteer solicitors are still working and are hoping to procure voluntary contributions to make up the remaining $1,873.86 needed to meet the quota. Any one not contacted by the workers during the drive is asked to mail contributions to the chapter office.

Robert T. Mason, county chairman, presided. Charlton Myers, Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer and G. E. Hammond were named to act as a nominating committee for the election of officers. As in former years the annual meeting is open to the entire county membership.

"Hot Corner" Troubles Pile up as Major League Bosses Bemoan Shortage

By JOE REICHLER
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 11—Major league baseball managers are plagued by unsettled baseman this year and have begun to bemoan the lack of dependable shortstops and second sackers.

The opening of the 1946 season is but a few days away only Cleveland's Lou Boudreau, the New York Yankees' Joe McCarthy and the St. Louis Cardinals' Eddie Dyer of the 16 big league pilots have solved their "hot corner" problem and even they aren't counting too pretty.

Manager Cleveland owns one of the best third sackers in the American league, but the recently discharged sailor was late in reporting and hasn't trimmed down to his best playing weight. Currently Boudreau has been using Bob Lemon and Don Ross at the far corner.

Kurowski Benched

Whitey Kurowski, hard hitting Cardinal third baseman, ended a long holdout siege last Saturday and hasn't seen an inning of action. He is expected to be on the bench when the season opens with Al (Red) Schoendienst, an outfielder last year, at third.

George Stirnweiss, best second baseman in the American league last year will be the regular Yankee third baseman this season but an injury to second sacker Joe Gordon last month may send Sturny back at his old post next Tuesday.

Even Steve O'Neill and Charlie Grimm, the 1945 pennant winning managers, are not certain of their opening day third basemen. O'Neill has been experimenting with Jimmy Outlaw, last year's part-time third baseman, Billy Hitchcock and Pinky Higgins. It looks like he will start the season with the 37-year-old Higgins who was beginning to show the effects of age when he entered the service two years ago.

Stan Hack Getting Shaky

Grimm has been worried over the slowness of veteran Stan Hack in rounding into form. The 35-year-old Californian has needed assistance in almost every game from youthful Johnny Ostrowski and his hitting has been practically nil this spring.

Injuries have been responsible for the unsettled third base condition of Brooklyn and the New York Giants. In Brooklyn, Harry (Cookie) Lavagetto, back after four years in the Navy, was counted on to pick up where he left off at the far corner, but an injured hand has written him off for at least another month. Billy Herman and Pete Reiser were injured while attempting to fill in for Lavagetto and now Len Riggs 10-year man in the majors, is buying his hand there.

Manager Mel Ott finally has decided on Buddy Kerr after giving Nick Witek, Dick Bartell and Jaime Almendro a crack at third. Witek is sidelined by a split hand.

In Philadelphia George Kell, a late reporter, and Pete Suder, 1943 regular, are battling for the Athletics post while Jim Tabor, purchased from the Boston Red Sox, has the inside track in the Phillies camp.

Southworth Has Three

Billy Southworth, of the Boston Braves, has three candidates. Sibbi Sisti, Connie Fernandez and Bob Dettweiler. Joe Cronin of the Red Sox is equally undecided. With two would-be regulars Jack Tobin and Ty Lafore est already disposed of to the minors, the eligibles have narrowed down to Ernie Andres and Eddie Pellegrim, both without a league backgrounds.

Bill McKechnie of Cincinnati plans to start the season with Grady Hatten, a former service man star who has never played in organized ball. Jeep Hartley and Vic Barnhart have been alternating at third for the Pirates while Bob Kennedy, a .321 hitter before joining the Army appears to have won the berth for the Chicago White Sox.

Washington, which camp has a good third baseman in Joe Manager Ossie Bluege, offers George Myatt, last year's regular second baseman and Sherry Robertson returned serviceman. The St Louis Browns, experimenting with Rookie Bobby Dilinger has shifted back to Mark Christman now that Sherston Vern Stephens has returned from the Mexican league.

Yanks Near Home

BALTIMORE, April 11—The New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers continue their northward trek today in an exhibition game here, their last clash before opening a three-game series at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn. Tommy Henrich, regular Yankee right fielder has been granted permission to visit his home and will not be in the lineup today, but Charlie Keller, New York left fielder, was expected back after a three-day vacation.

WICHITA, Kans.—Sam Zoldak, who blanked the Chicago Cubs in his first appearance against the National league champions, will be on the mound for the Browns today against the Cubs in the finale of their 20-game spring series. Moore Gets Worried

TULSA, Okla. — Terry Moore, team captain of the St. Louis Cardinals, tried out for four innings against the Oklahoma City Indians yesterday the ailing legs that have kept him out of action most of the spring. Moore, who hasn't missed an opening day game in nine years in organized baseball, said he would start in Tuesday's opener only if he believed himself ready.

Softball Commission Reorganizes, Sets May 6 for Opening Tilts

Entries Due by April 29th; Five New Members Picked

May 6 was set as the opening day for the independent Y M C A. softball season at a meeting of the softball commission last night at the Y following the annual softball banquet. April 29 is the deadline for team entries.

At the banquet five new commission members were elected. Four vacancies already existed and T H McKenney, president of the commission, tendered his resignation during the course of the session. He was given a standing vote of thanks for his work in softball during the past two and one-half years.

Winners Get Flags

Dan Rice, oldest commission member and veteran umpire, presented pennants to last season's champs. Louis Myers accepted for St. Mary's, winner of the Church league. William Darnell accepted Universal Cooler's fourth straight pennant in the Industrial league and Kenny Somerlot accepted for Schlaire's. Transfer in the Commercial league. Lawrence Wise was presented the city play-off pennant, also won by Schlaire's Transfer.

Hope was expressed by Rice and the retiring president that 1946 and 1947 would be the best softball years in history. All players and managers were urged to get behind the teams early in the season and stay with them throughout.

Commission members elected at the banquet are Charles Murray, Wade Conkle, Fred Weber, Lawrence Edgington and Watt Merchant.

Entry Fee Boosted

At the commission reorganization meeting following the banquet entry fee for teams was set at $25. This is an increase of $5 over last year, however there will be no individual player registration fee this year.

Since in the past one team has tended to dominate each league,

HOPE IS ABANDONED FOR VINCE DUNDEE

Ex-Champion Suffers From Four-Year Paralysis.

By The Associated Press

GLENDALE, Calif., April 11—Physicians have abandoned hope of saving the life of Vince Dundee, world's middleweight champion in 1933-34.

Dundee was stricken with progressive paralysis four years ago. It has spread and he is bedridden, can barely speak. Doctors diagnosed his ailment as a blocked nerve at the base of the brain.

Dundee's wife said the Italian-born boxer sustained injuries in a bout against Freddie Steele in Seattle in 1935 that led to his retirement from game. Vince ran up against the sharpshooting Steele when Steele was being built up for the middleweight title.

Dundee staged a comeback in 1937, fighting Billy Conn, among others. He went the distance in all his bouts and won two by kayos.

But that was his last year in boxing. Vince won the title in 1933 from Lou Brouillard, lost it to Teddy Yarosz the next year.

He was born Vincent Lazzaro 42 years ago. He and his brothers, Joe, ex-welterweight champion, and Mike, a lightweight, took the name Dundee in the ring.

New AAU Champions Crowned; Ohio Heavy Keeps U. S. Title

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, April 11—After reviewing the 163 bouts needed to complete the 58th national amateur boxing championship tournament, the experts on Simonpure fisticuffing today agreed their sport had been improved by the war.

With seven new champions crowned and the only defender, heavyweight Charlie Lester of Cleveland, repeating, the mittmen's first post-war nationals was one of the most artistic and financial successes in its long history.

During the championship batting before a packed 13,106 crowd at the Boston Garden last night, the top team honors were shared by the colorful Hawaiians, back in the tourney for the first time since 1940, and the hard-fisted U. S. Marines from the Cherry Point, N. C. base. They deadlocked for the group honors with 10 points each.

The Hawaiian delegation, which provided all four semi-finalists in the 112-pounds crown, also garnered the 118 and 147 pounds titles. The winners from the islands were flyweight Dave Buno, bantamweight Tsuneshi Maruo, be-medaled member of the Italian campaign's famed Japanese-American 442d regiment, and welterweight Bob Takeshita.

Joe Discepoli, who hails from Cincinnati, won the 135-pound title for the Marines and Harold Anspach of Williamsport, Pa. their 160-pound championship.

Lester's rival in the final round was Raymond Stevens of Philadelphia, who amazed the crowd with his tremendous capacity for the cruelest sort of punishment.

For the first time in almost 20 years, the tourney produced a three-time winner in Chicago's Bob Foxworth, a Negro light heavyweight with a perfect mixture of skill and power.

Foxworth, the 175-pound winner here in both 1942 and 1943, before he entered the Navy, ran his string of consecutive victories to an even 80 when he knocked out Ben Shelton of Pittsburgh in the first round of their title bout.

The only other 1945 winner entered was New Orleans' Keith Hamilton, who out-grew his 112-pound title. He cut a wide swath among the 118-pounders until Wallace Smith of Cincinnati, Marino's victim, edged him in the semi-final round.

There are approximately 250 commercial airports in the United States.

YANKEE POWER DUMPS DODGERS AT COLUMBUS

DiMaggio's Slugging Plus Marshall's Pitching Too Much.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 11—The dangerous bat of Joe DiMaggio blended with Rookie Clarence Marshall's three-hit pitching yesterday to produce an 8 to 1 win for the New York Yankees in an exhibition game with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

DiMaggio demonstrated some of his pre-war skill by cracking out three singles and a double. The only time they got him out left fielder Dick Whitman ran back to the 130-foot mark to take in Joe's drive.

A crowd of 10,728 paying fans watched the Yanks knock freshman Joe Hatten out of the box in the second inning as they drove in all but one of their runs. Vic Lombardi and Jean Pierre Roy pitched the balance of the game for the Dodgers.

By The Associated Press

RICHMOND, Va., April 11—Bob Feller, Cleveland's fireball ace, was called on for round duty against the New York Giants today in his final test before facing Chicago Tuesday at the opening of the American league season.

Harry Feldman and Hal Schumacher were expected to oppose the Indian ace, who has yet to go nine innings this spring.

Pat Seerey, bulky Cleveland left fielder was the hero of yesterday's game, driving in five runs as the Indians upset the New York club, 6 to 4. His single sent one man home in the first and a 350-foot homer added four more tallies in the fourth.

Van Johnson, who kept the Giants well in check during his seven innings on the mound, and Don Black gave up six blows while the Indians were collecting nine off Monte Kennedy, Bob Joyce and Rube Fischer.

Mexico Still Threatens Big Leagues Despite Return of Stars to U. S.

LAND OF PLENTY. Mexico offers a dizzying picture to some of the small-time American baseball players, many of whom take in less than $7,000 a year. The players pictured above already have the pick of the cream but the two most outstanding, Mickey Owen and Vern Stephens, returned and came back to the U. S. fold. The Mexican League pulled a well conceived through the country as shown on the map above.

Pasquels Already Dream up Strategy for 1947 Season

Latest reports are that the five Pasquel brothers, owners of the new Mexican league, still have a few old cards to dangle before the eyes of any dissatisfied major leaguer—despite the return of Mickey Owen and Vern Stephens to the U. S. setup. Mexico is still a No. 1 problem.

Whether the Pasquels will be given more to the way of raiding this season is a question, but Jorge Pasquel, the big boy, certainly was hungry in 1947.

He feels that everything's fair in this baseball war, and he is a very rich and very determined gentleman. It's a mistake for the major league brass to treat him and his like too lightly. You can't shrug off some of his wilder words.

Eyes Bob Chandler.

The Mexicans in addition to being rich, have a sense of humor. They offered Baseball Czar "Happy" Chandler $50,000 a year to come over and be their boss. Chandler refused to be drawn into an argument and declined to comment.

Some observers are betting the Pasquels may take advantage of opportunities during the coming season. Perhaps when some star gets temperamental and draws a big line, the Pasquels will make him a very friendly offer and get him off to Mexico. Some players might even be willing to jump just to show them U. S. brass.

Olmo Led Way.

The flow of players this year started with Luke Olmo, who was unable to get anywhere with his salary demands in the Brooklyn Dodgers. He accepted a good offer from Vera Cruz. A few weeks ago Al Gionfriddo, Olmo some young ball players.

By the end of March the Pasquels said major operations to at least 40 big leaguers. 17 of whom crossed the Rio Grande for better pay and shorter hours. Each team plays three games a week.

The numbers of these players were they to be placed on the American diamond market, would run between $400,000 and $500,000.

Plenty Left.

But what the Pasquels have already laid on the line is not even a drop in the bucket when their backing, financial and expert advice is in the neighborhood of $60,000,000. And that, says Jorge Pasquel, president of the league, does not include $6 million allotted to by the directors of eight Mexican clubs.

Many more major leaguers probably will jump to Mexico. However, it is doubted by every sound American baseball magnate that the Mexicans will ever be able to put a dent in the talent of United States baseball. The fact remains that the majors are overloaded this season and have the stand-by minor league players of one or two clubs and a star.

The war years showed the American magnates that it was possible to get along with minor league players. Now they have a headache trying to make room for service returnees and in many cases the Mexican league is doing them a favor.

The Dodgers pay not from Olmo, and not a cent of a South American duty, distantly related to the rabbit.

Ty Cobb Advises Against "Jumping"

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11—Ty Cobb, recalling how 30 years ago he turned down a $15,000 offer to jump an American league contract for a new baseball venture, today cautioned baseball players against breaking contracts for a fling at "big money" in the Mexican league.

When the Federal league was founded, the former Detroit star related, Charley Stoneham, old man and owner of the Newark club of the new league and Joe Gilmore, the league president, made him the offer.

Cobb said he signed in the American league "14 years ago, and never regretted it." The Federal league operated in 1914-1915.

In explaining his opinion that players should continue their contracts, Cobb made it plain he is not opposed to the Mexican league but added that "breaking a valid contract is serious business."

FOES DUCK AKRON

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., April 11—Akron university's football opener on Sept. 28th is the only scheduled date of the schedule, says Athletic Director Peter Sefcik, who is looking for an opponent again. Wayne university cancelled when it had a chance to play Michigan State and now Coach Wallace has requested cancellation because of new conference obligations and Carnegie Tech announced the Tartans' game with Kent State set for Nov. 16 would be played on the Kardex Bowl, the night of Nov. 23.

FRIENDS NO MORE. Mickey Owen, right, Dodger catcher, is shown above as he conferred with Adrian Pasquel in San Antonio, Tex., on a deal to player-manage for Torreon in the Mexican loop. Everything was rosy then, but now Mickey says he wants no part of Mexico and Adrian's big brother, Jorge, threatens to sue Mickey for breach of contract.

Ohio Vet To Renew Career As College Mound Ace at 34

CITICED, O., April 11—At the age most baseball players begin to [illegible] on the downgrade of their careers, Charles Settlemire will be starting a college competitive baseball season.

Slated for considerable mound duty this year with the Miami university baseball team, Settlemire is 34 years old and is resuming his college education after a lapse of more than 18 years.

He's a brother of Merle (Lefty) Settlemire, manager of the Richmond, Ind., team of the Class B State league, and of Bert Settlemire, former Luna Central, Ky., baseball, football and basketball star and now recreational director at Luna.

Settlemire, almost twice the age of many of his teammates, has played industrial baseball around Luna. He attended Miami for two years in the early 30's and played on the baseball team then.

He returned to Miami this year under the GI Bill of Rights and hopes he'll be able to complete work for his degree in the 18 months in which the government will pay the tuition and a monthly allowance. He's studying to be a weather forecaster.

Settlemire is a native of Logan county and attended Lemasters high school. Now married, he's living in a farm near Oxford because of the proximity of Luna's in Miami downstream of a private school.

"Will use Coach frequently this season," said Miami Coach W. J. Blair Bruce. "With his experience, he'll be a great help to our young pitchers as well as others on the squad."

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

NEW YORK, April 11—Tommy Crowley, All America football conference commissioner, is wasting no time getting his league started. . . . Already he has signed players from the National league and a number of the Cleveland Rams' players. . . . And the Brooklyn Dodgers joined the fun when A. A. C. officials announced they'd give the players a break. . . . Any player with the privilege of earning $5,000 or $6 or more next year wants to continue with pro ball after the present season. . . . The All America already is going to start some new rules in an effort to take care of the overflow. Even the older league already has the evening games sold out. . . . From this angle, it seems that as many citizens will get caught on the outside as will be privileged to get inside. . . . One more start of the season every game will be our sport with millions.

Hal Schumacher Rated As Key To Giant Hopes

By CHIP ROYAL
(Wide World Features Sports Editor

Hal Schumacher, comeback of the New York Giants pitcher three years in the making, could be the key to the Polo Grounders' pennant hopes this year.

Besides Schumacher, could Johnny Mize, Sid Gordon, Willard Marshall, Bartell, Babe Young, Walker Cooper, Bill Voiselle, Ace Adams, Clyde Kluttz, Bill Rigney, Buddy Kerr, Hank Majeski, Morrie Arnovich, Mickey Witek, Frankie Gustine and Dave Koslo, among the many service men expected back.

But when you come right down to it probably Speedy Schumy can mean more to the Giants than any of those mentioned above.

Here's why:

The strong-armed righthander knows he has a job on his hands getting back into shape.

HAL SCHUMACHER

"Ford Frick (president of the National League) was telling me the other day that the future of the serviceman in baseball depends on his timing. I agree wholeheartedly!

"Gosh, when I went out on the mound for the first time in three years, my feet felt funny. Then I couldn't get the feel of the ball."

Asked if timing was just as important to a thrower as a hitter, Speedy widened the steely glint in his blue eyes and said:

"Every baseball player must have coordination whether he is a batter or a pitcher. It's tough to pick it up after a layoff. The aches and pains stay longer as you use the muscles which have rested for so many months.

"There are just as many competitive angles on the mound as there are at the plate. Pitchers and batters both have the quick starts and stops. I think conditioning is just as tough for one as for the other."

Speedy tightened his jaws and looked at the Giant candidates around him. Over in a corner of the field a couple of kids were trying to pitch.

"I've never seen so many new faces on a ball club," smiled Schumy. "But I'm ready for all competition for three more years. Then, I hope to coach or get a job as a manager.

"Will you pardon me a minute while I go over and help that youngster with the blond hair? He doesn't step toward the base when he throws!"

As Speedy walked away, there were only two thoughts in the back of the Royal head: Schumacher can't miss getting the 200 games he wants in the National league win column — and he's going to be a great manager one of these days.

Rogers Thought Ranch Was Just Like a Farm

By The Associated Press

PASADENA, Calif. — Rogers Hornsby, one of baseball's all-time great batters, laughs when he tells how he became a major leaguer ahead of schedule.

"When I first came up to the Cardinals, I was a scrawny kid weighing only 135 pounds," relates Hornsby. "Manager Miller Huggins took me aside at the end of the season and told me they would have to farm me out.

"Just a green kid, I though he meant he was going to put me on a farm to fatten me up—so I beat him to the punch. I spent the entire off-season on my uncle's ranch in Texas and came back weighing 160 next spring.

"From then on I became a regular."

Here and There in Ohio Sports

By HAROLD HARRISON
AP Sport Writer

COLUMBUS, O., April 11—Where are the soft spots?.....

One look at Miami university's 1946 football schedule shows the Redskins will have their work cut out for them. Director of Athletics Merlin Ditmer has arranged a nine-game program and this will be the Redskin route:

They'll open on Sept. 21 against Purdue at Lafayette, Ind. They'll rest the next week and then on successive weekends they'll meet Dayton at Dayton, Bowling Green at Bowling Green, Xavier at Oxford, Ohio University at Athens, Bradley Tech at Oxford, University of Miami (Fla.), the 1946 Orange Bowl champions, at Miami, Fla., Western Michigan at Oxford and Cincinnati at Cincinnati.....

• • •

Lancaster to New Hampshire

William L. (Bill) Glassford of Lancaster, who received considerable "all-team" mention while playing guard for the University of Pittsburgh football team in 1935 and 1936 has been named head grid coach at the University of New Hampshire.

Glassford was an All-Central Ohio league player with Lancaster high school in 1930 and 1931 and then played three years of varsity ball at Pitt. In 1936 he was captain of the Panther squad that played in the Rose Bowl game. He was an assistant coach at Carnegie Tech and later was assistant at Yale until he went into the Navy in 1943.

An All-Time All-Timer

Bill Moeller of the Hamilton News-Journal has made a personal choice of Hamilton's greatest athlete—Paul Sarringhaus.

After starting his athletic career in grade school, Sarringhaus won nine letters at Hamilton high school—three each in football, basketball and track. He didn't play in a losing football game in his three years of high school competition, the only two games Hamilton lost in that time being when Sarringhaus was out because of injuries.

At Ohio State he won three football letters and now has signed to play with the Philadelphia Eagles in the National pro league.....

Braves Seek Ohio Talent

The Boston Braves will conduct a three-day baseball tryout camp at Lancaster April 19, 20 and 21. The camp will be under the direction of Chief Scout Jack McAllister and Joe Donnelly, organizer and former president of the Ohio State league.

Other scouts and coaches for the Braves also are expected to aid in giving tryouts to the central Ohio hopefuls.

Rules prohibit boys eligible for high school and American Legion junior baseball from attending the camp.....

Choosing the All-Stars

The coaching school committee of the Ohio High School Football Coaches association is expected to meet at Cleveland May 2 to begin the task of selecting boys to play in the All-Star game at Toledo Aug. 16. Boys named on the first and second All-Ohio teams by The Associated Press and other press services automatically are eligible and the coaching committee will name others to complete two squads of 24 each.

Twenty-one of the 22 boys named on The Associated Press teams last fall were seniors and thus will be eligible to play in the game but some already are reported to be in military service.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"WHAT do you mean?" I asked Katharine, startled.

"Exactly what I say," she replied. "Don't do any worrying over Mary at that luncheon. Extend any spare sympathy to Olina."

And this, I told myself, was from the woman to whom I had looked for some wise suggestion as to Mary's dealing with the difficult luncheon situation which Olina was planning!

"But," I began, that's just it! I don't want Mary to do anything crude or drastic at that luncheon. And I certainly don't want Noel to realize what Olina is trying to do."

"It mightn't be such a bad thing for him, at that," Katharine said, and in her voice there was distinct disapproval of Noel's attitude toward Mary's occasional frivolity.

"But I don't think either Noel or Roderick is going to be much disturbed," she said. "You know Mary. She couldn't be crude if she tried, but she can be Machiavellian to the 'nth degree.

"I agree with you," she went on, "that it wouldn't have been so hot for Mary if Olga—bless her heart!—hadn't warned you about the thing. But Mary now knows just what is going to happen, and you can bet she's cooking up something extra fancy."

Hope She's Right

"I hope you're right," I said.

"But you're sure I'm wrong!" Katharine retorted. "Well, Darling, there isn't a single tiny thing you or I can do or suggest which will help. It's Mary's baby; she'll have to give it its bottle."

There was finality in her voice, and I realized the truth of what she was saying. But I was disappointed, nevertheless, and I think Katharine knew it, for she struck a more flippant note.

"I'm almost sorry I'm not going to be among those present," she said. "That heirloom ring must be something to see. Did you say Georges described the ring to Mary?"

"Yes, he did."

"Did she pass the description on to you?" she queried. "Yes, I'm shamelessly and avidly curious."

Making Talk

I knew that she was simply making talk to ease the disappointment she sensed in me, but I answered her question truthfully.

"No, she didn't," I said. "She gave the excuse that perhaps Georges hadn't described the real ring to her, and if so, she would rather I didn't know it until after the luncheon was over."

"A most sensible point," Katharine commented, but Dicky was struggling for speech.

"If Georges gave her a phony description!" he threatened, but Katharine laughed softly.

"What could you do?" she scoffed. "The Chief has Georges safe, and you know he wouldn't let you at him. And you can't take out your spite on poor Olina. She'll get her punishment a-plenty if Georges ever comes back and marries her. So all you can do is to possess what passes for your soul in patience."

"Take her away, Jack!" Dicky adjured my kinsman. "She's flouting me!"

Was Going Anyway

"I was going anyway," she said. "We must get back to Faith and our job. Mary probably will float in here before going down to her apartment to get ready for luncheon, but I hope the rest of us won't have to bother you."

She and Jack bade us good-bye, and walked toward the door. But before she opened it, she turned back with a parting adjuration.

"When you go, come next door and leave your keys," she said. "Then Faith can hold her conferences with Jack in here and leave me free to take any really necessary care of your mother."

"I'll do that," I promised, and then she was gone, and in another minute Mary was framed in the doorway.

"We who are about to die, salute you!" she intoned.

House-Wreckers Save Cat from Tight Fix

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO—"Queenie" got herself into a jam recently, and it took two strong men, a chisel, a hammer and an hour of labor to get her out. The cat became wedged in a narrow space between two buildings. A section of wall had to be removed to free her.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDENSEN, M.D.

Baby Toilet Habits

When it comes to baby's toilet training, wise mothers will let well enough alone. They will not attempt training too early nor insist on perfection.

All too many mothers, however, regard the establishing of regular habits as a life-and-death matter. Under the mistaken impression that absolute clock-like regularity of elimination is necessary to health, they begin training early and pursue it rigorously with the result that they often have a rebellious and constipated baby to deal with.

Indeed, many specialists believe that these over-vigorous training habits not only interfere with normal bowel habits, but may also permanently distort the child's personality.

According to Dr. Benjamin Spock of New York, it is very important for mothers to learn the right way of going about this training. It should never be pressed to the point where the child rebels, a particular danger during the second year of life.

Rebellion means conflict and conflict means emotional scars, sometimes of life-long duration.

Babies may rebel against the training merely because having a bowel movement is uncomfortable. An infant who has had painful, hard movements on frequent occasions naturally dreads the toilet seat. Thus it is necessary to prevent or cure constipation throughout the first two years of life by regulating the diet.

Another factor to be given consideration is whether or not the infant naturally has bowel movements at a regular time. The baby who always moves his bowels at the same time each day is never a training problem.

Dr. Spock points out that the resistance against training may take three forms: First, the baby resists sitting on the toilet or even going to the bathroom. In severe cases, there may be violent rages and temper tantrums. In another group of cases, the baby may sit on the toilet willingly but nothing happens. The bowel movement occurs immediately after he gets up.

In a third variety the baby will not have a bowel movement either while on the toilet or afterwards. He acquires constipation merely because of his mental attitude. The retained bowel movement becomes hard within the bowel and then is painful to eliminate. Then the baby has two reasons for failure to have a bowel movement, the hard stool and resistance to the toilet seat.

In the process of training, the baby should be put on the toilet casually and briefly, and only after he can sit up well without help. If the baby does not seem to cooperate, efforts should be relaxed until weeks or months later.

Every child will gradually acquire control of the bowel function in the normal way if he is let alone to a great extent. Too much persistence will do more harm than good.

Tardy Russians Delay Indictments of Japs

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, April 11—Failure of a long-awaited Russian prosecution staff to arrive in Tokyo brought a new delay Thursday in the return of indictments against former Premier Hideki Tojo and other top Japanese awaiting war crimes trials

The international military tribunal announced officially the indictments would be delayed "a short time," instead of being returned Monday as planned.

The delay was believed to have been suggested by General MacArthur's headquarters which is anxious to make certain the Russians are not put in a position to make protest later that the indictments did not express their views

The Soviet delegation of 70 is expected to arrive by Saturday

OHIO MUNICIPALITIES HUNT TAX MEASURES

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, April 11—The men who have to find money to keep Ohio's cities going took up the problem of bond issues today while awaiting results of a referendum election on the controversial Toledo income tax.

The one per cent tax on gross income earned in Toledo, whether by residents or non-residents, is expected to raise $3,000,000 annually for the city, especially for retirement of its bonded indebtedness, the annual meeting of the Municipal Finance Officers' Association of Ohio was told yesterday.

R. T Anderson, Toledo finance director, who described the tax as one of the fairest possible to devise, answered numerous questions from officials of other cities in yesterday's session.

Another Toledoan, Hazen S. Arnold, executive vice president of Braun, Bosworth & Co., a bond house, was scheduled to discuss problems of municipal bond issues in today's closing sessions.

The program also included a final round table discussion and election of officers.

The association yesterday heard R. P. Barthalow, Columbus city auditor and first chief of the state sales tax division, assert that Ohio's cities are being "continuously gypped on the sales tax and frequently gypped again by over county budget committees."

"In the past decade," he said, "nobody would never have been any need for special municipal taxes if the state had given a fair distribution of the sales tax."

Sixteen million dollars were appropriated for county and local governments from the sales tax by the last legislature which set up a distribution formula based on population and need.

OLD FAVORITES, NEW OPERAS ON PROGRAM

Cleveland Season To Run from April 22 to 27.

With a repertoire that includes a scattering of old favorites, one new never before heard in Cleveland and several not performed in several years, the world's greatest singers will make their annual pilgrimage to the Cleveland auditorium to present the twenty-first season of operatic festival by the entire Metropolitan Opera Association of New York, April 22 through 27.

Attracting unusual interest is the only Wagnerian opera of the week "Tannhaeuser," which will mark the first Cleveland appearance of Torsten Ralf, the Metropolitan's new Swedish tenor whose debut early in the New York season was such a great success. Ralf will be heard in the title role with Helen Traubel, great American Wagnerian soprano as Elizabeth.

Also high on the list of interesting performance will be the production of "The Magic Flute," on Wednesday evening, with Bruno Walter, the great Mozart specialist, conducting an especially selected cast to do justice to the beautiful Mozart melodies. Walter also will conduct the first Cleveland performance of Verdi's "The Masked Ball," on Saturday afternoon.

Opera tickets are on sale here at Wiant's Book store.

Member Reilly Dissenting

THE dissent by Gerald B. Reilly to the national labor relations board ruling that foremen may be considered as ordinary employes tells more of the story than the ruling.

Member Reilly made the same dissent to the same proposition in June 1942. The NLRB ruled then that an independent union of supervisory employes in certain mines of United Collieries Coal Co was an appropriate union for collective bargaining and ordered an election. Said Member Reilly: "A literal interpretation of the statute (National Labor Relations Act) would mean that even the president, vice president and treasurer of a corporation would have a right to bargain collectively, since they are also employes."

In May 1943 NLRB reversed itself by ruling that certain classes of supervisory workers employed by Maryland Drydock Co did not constitute an appropriate unit for bargaining and should not be considered as employes. In that case, Member Reilly was with the majority, which frankly admitted NLRB had been wrong in the 1942 decision. The conflict between the two rulings has been a headache ever since, especially in view of the determination of John L. Lewis, who intends to organize coal mine foremen whether NLRB gives its consent or not and already has called one strike over the issue. No one in Washington ever has resisted Mr. Lewis successfully.

Under the current dispensation in Washington, organized labor always wins eventually, right or wrong. Member Reilly still has not changed his mind. One of his associates, John M. Houston, has changed his mind, however, and now is in a majority with Paul M. Herzog, the board chairman. Oh administrative law! What miracles are performed in thy name!

Someone Missed the Point

THE president of the New York state tax commission, announcing its adverse ruling on a claim by executors for the estate of Franklin D. Roosevelt that the late chief executive was a member of the armed forces at the time of his death and therefore exempt from personal income, has made an extremely important point. Unfortunately, he has made it too late to spare Mr. Roosevelt's memory a gratuitous slur.

Mr Roosevelt himself, in a speech at Philadelphia during his 1944 campaign, said: "It was due to no accident and no oversight that the framers of our Constitution put the command of our armed forces under civilian authority. It is the duty of the commander in chief to appoint the secretaries of War and Navy and the chiefs of staff."

Another wartime chief executive, Woodrow Wilson, chiding a painter for depicting him in uniform, said: "The framers of the Constitution realized that the president would seldom be a soldier and their idea in making him the commander in chief of the Army and Navy of the United States was that the armed forces of the country must be the instruments of the authority by which policy was determined."

The public criticism caused by the executors' claim for income tax exemption does an injustice to the late president, who realized that he was a civilian carrying out the purpose of the Constitution, which was to subordinate military to civil power even in wartime. As this government's spokesman in meetings with Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill, Mr. Roosevelt always wore civilian clothes, mute testimony to his civilian status as a war leader.

Admitting It To Ourselves

ONE OF the Democratic party's wilder-eyed congressmen was in New York City a few days ago with some startling statements for an audience of school teachers. He told them the United States had 1,500 atomic bombs stored and was making more; that the secret of the bomb should be passed out to one and all; that we are going to attack Russia and more of the same.

Rantings like these give Americans with faith in the United States an excuse to stiffen their upper lips and think about the one aspect of the atomic bomb which has been deliberately overlooked by everyone who lacks the same kind of faith.

There is not a rational human being on earth who is not thankful, if he knows anything about the matter, that the secret of the atomic bomb was discovered by the United States and is still in this country's possession. This is the one nation with the combination of good intentions, integrity and security to make it a virtual certainty that the bomb will not be used. While there are other governments that would not choose to use it, none of them at this moment is in a position to maintain its own integrity. Even if no one wants to talk about it, Americans may admit it to themselves occasionally to sustain the faith in this country that wild-eyed congressmen sometimes lack.

FORMIDABLE MAIDEN

Specifications for the heroine in a new O'Neill play call for "a 24-year-old girl with a thick Irish accent, brawny enough to do the work of two men in the fields, yet play emotion subtly." Any resistance by the hero would appear to be useless.—San Francisco Chronicle.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Explanation Found for Spring Strike by Miners.

WASHINGTON, April 11—The Pittsburgh coal strike is easily explained. The miners seem said to be peeved, have gardens out and morning glories growing around the shacks in the company yard. Many are farmers on the side and need to do an early planting and seeding. They have long been accustomed to a vacation-strike every year in April to get these things done. For the past five years, due to the war, they have had to work through spring obstreperously.

To make sure they get it this year, the union boss John L. Lewis neglected to tell the operators exactly what we wanted in the new contract. He presented no specific list of demands, but left his wants rather vaguely or vaguely stated. He took no chance that the operators would agree.

The real fight Lewis began to get down to business, which fact has not yet hit all on the inside to explain a settlement is near—surely by next week they say but nobody before this goes into print. The [illegible] exist. The [illegible] ring [illegible] the operators are on the move, the [illegible] greatly [illegible] and [illegible] peacefully.

One Serious Objective

Lewis is serious about one thing. He wants to establish his own union social security system to promote medical aid, safety and welfare. If it works out right Lewis will put the union in charge of handling vast funds and establish a sort of super government within it, or at least make it a competitor with the federal government in its health, safety and welfare activities.

The only other current strike of importance is over the refusal of the Westinghouse electrical appliance works in Pittsburgh. Its issues are of greater public significance than the unionized coal strike. This company has had no labor troubles in the past. Its record is superior. Yet 18,000 or more workers plus 35,000 other Westinghouse workers, have been out for weeks in a fairly bitter struggle in an industry which is vitally needed for peacetime production, as the dearth of nonessential electrical appliances has cut the public hard.

The real trouble is the company granted secret wage increases during the war in the way of incentive pay and stop-loss pay, at the private direction of the government which had their workers at its own little pet formula in order to raise wages without announcing it. Now the electrical workers have come along with a demand for the 18½ cents an hour increase that other industries have got, plus other adjustments which would raise the average hourly earnings to the equivalent of about 30 cents an hour.

Competition Problem

The company says frankly that it cannot stand the proposed increase and do business against its big competitor General Electric, where the wartime incentive devices did not go as high as at Westinghouse, and therefore the general operating pay would be lower. Trustworthy figures of production of electric lamps particularly show this. I understand Westinghouse has gone as high as Phil Murray, head of the entire CIO, in its plea for fair moderation of the union demands to meet competitive production. Murray sympathized, but said he could do nothing. The company says the strike will continue until the union reaches a decision for moderation.

Pennsylvania's political-boss type (boss of what?) senator Joe. Guffey has tried ineffectively to get the senate labor committee, which is controlled by CIO, to conduct an investigation of the strike, which would be favorable to the union. He has been pushing the Kilgore resolution for a senatorial investigation of strikes, with the Westinghouse case in mind. But the idea of a political inquiry into strikes has been a little too much for even that strongest CIO committee in congress and the Kilgore resolution is languishing.

Yet in general, the national strike situation is clearing up. Greatest steal of the campaign was one by the CIO political action boss Sidney Hillman—without a strike—in the Amalgamated clothing industry which he dominates. Only a paragraph or so in the press recently heralded the hold-up effected by CIO's smoothie, who wrangled $60,000,000 more a year out of the clothing makers (meaning the public) with wage increases ranging from 18 cents to 30 cents an hour.

I have heard the best objective authority on labor say privately and I think it is true.

"It will take the unions until 1958 to win back the solid ground they have lost in their recent strikes campaign."

Music from Defaulted Notes?

In New York 26 banks are experimenting with the playing of phonograph records over their loud speaker systems.

On the theory, one takes it, that music hath charms to soothe the ravaged borrower.

I trust they will adopt suitable themes for the various departments: something like "Oh Promise Me" for the small loan division, for instance, and "No Can Do" for the mortgage renewal window.

They might even give out with "The Absconder's Lament" occasionally, just for the benefit of any tellers with an itch to travel.

Music will be a welcome addition to the banking field. Most banks have been so quiet you could hear a balance drop.

About the only thing audible, above the rustle of greenbacks and the subdued clink of silver, was the creak of negative nodding.

Banking in three-quarter time—that will be the greatest boon to mankind since the advent of painless dentistry.

Now when they call you up about an overdraft, they'll just say: "Come down and face the music."

Greeks Getting Gifts

By RAYMOND MOLEY

IT IS CERTAIN that Soviet Russia will now raise, with a good deal of reason the question of British and American influence in nominally independent countries. Greece will be a critical bone of contention.

The election just held there showed a moderate rightist majority. The leftist parties, which staged a small shooting insurrection after the liberation and almost killed Winston Churchill as he was leaving his hotel, ordered their followers to refrain from voting.

The Greek election fits well into British foreign policy—at least into the policy which Attlee inherited from Churchill. It may not fit the ideas now gaining ground in the Labor party that Mr. Bevin should do something to differentiate himself from Eden and Halifax.

Historic Interest

British interests in Greece are historic, as well as immediate. Ever since Lord Byron went to Greece with his songs of liberty and died there, England has held that Greece is its special sphere of influence. The reason for this is not historical or poetical, however. The Greek peninsula is one of the Mediterranean pillars—like Gibraltar, Malta and Cyprus—which overshadow the route to Suez. Another big power in Greece would be an almost intolerable threat to Britain. When Hitler entered the Balkans, the only country which Britain tried to save was Greece. Britain was unsuccessful then, but was able to liberate Greece toward the end.

Soviet Russia, aiming at an exit from the Black Sea, would like a favorable Greek government. It is not clear that the insurrection a year or more ago was directed by Russia. But it is clear that Russia did nothing to quell the outbreaks. Also, Russia complained about British influence in Greece at the London meeting early this year.

The dilemma of the British Labor party is serious. The Labor government is committed to the defense of a Greek regime which is utterly unlike everything that the British Labor party has advocated. There is open criticism of the Attlee government in Labor circles. We may see, in Greece, the major test of the Labor government. That test is whether a Socialist government at home will ultimately be consistent with imperialism abroad. It is going to take some fantastic dialectic to explain such a position. In fact, Socialist leaders will have to eat gargantuan meals of their own past utterances.

Country Is Poor

The Greek situation has domestic angles quite separate from military strategy. The country is poor, over-populated and underfed. The Greece of Pericles had to feed itself from Asiatic colonies. Modern Greece has none of those ancient breadbaskets. After the last war, Greece lived on borrowed money. And in 1933, the Greek minister came to the state department and pleaded inability to pay the relatively small sum of $12,000.

We are now, despite past Greek defaults, helping once more. The Import-Export Bank is getting ready to lend, and Britain is probably going to lend, too. This joint rescue party should, in justice to American taxpayers, be managed with some prudence. We must get some assurance that Greece intends to produce something besides civil war.

POISONOUS TOADSTOOLS

— Truman's First Year —

"Honeymoon" Days Are Over

By JACK STINNETT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, April 11—If ever a bridegroom socked a bride, congress did just that to President Truman and long before the legislative and administrative branches had been wed a year.

The honeymoon started out all orange blossoms and honey, but within six months congress was alternating with slap-downs and the silent treatment. The President told a friend: "I must have been naive."

President Harry S. Truman

If there was any line of demarcation, it was drawn when President Truman sent that 16,000-word, 21-point message to congress on Sept. 6. It was the second-longest such message on record.

Four and a half months later, in his double-barreled message on the budget and the state of the union to the new session of congress President Truman still was pleading for those 21 points and five additional.

The end of his first year saw only a handful of them passed and those of minor importance. The rest were either bogged down, dead or, in one instance, weighted down with a rider that Senate leaders said would result in the President's veto.

As his first year drew toward its close, President Truman was openly pointing his finger at congress and speaking of "a handful of men" (in committees) blocking the administration's legislative program.

Three weeks before his first anniversary, the President was publicly pleading for the Democratic majority in congress to assume its "party responsibility" and cooperate in carrying out the party platform."

The Democrats in congress, of course are the majority. The President's legislative program could be neither defeated nor balked without desertions to the Republican side.

Old Ailment

Once more it was the old story that has plagued Democratic unity since the Civil War—a split between the liberals and the southern conservatives.

The southern Democrats talked to death the President's fair employment practices act. The southern Democrats unfeathered the minimum wage scale revisions (although it was the senate farm bloc that draped it with the parity farm price changes, to which the President was so opposed).

They had a big hand too in changing the so-called "full employment" bill.

When the shouting is all over, more of the President's program will be passed, with compromises no doubt, but passed nevertheless. Big fights on two major domestic issues and one major foreign issue strongly recommended by the President are still ahead. These are a health and prepaid medical care program (the Wagner-Murray-Dingell act), universal military training, and the $3,750,000,000 British loan.

Variety of Explanations

What caused the Truman-Congress honeymoon to go pfft?

You can get as many answers as you ask political leaders and Washington observers, starting with the traditional antagonism between the legislative and executive branches of our government.

Some of it no doubt was due to President Truman's statement in his September, 1945, message to congress when he flatly and unequivocally laid down the administration domestic policy.

"The objectives which we seek in our long-range plans," he said then, "were summarized by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt over a year and a half ago in the form of the economic bill of rights."

The groan that went up from the long-time anti-Roosevelt boys was heard all over the land. Their hopes that the new President would turn to the conservative right were given a good dose of cold water with that statement. The conservative Democrats swung away and the fight was on.

Political Hayride

When President Truman took office, we were nearly 19 months away from the 1946 congressional elections this November. Today, we are less than seven months away, and far less than that from the primaries on which many of the representatives and a third of the senators may stand or fall.

The chaotic condition of the world and even more importantly (from a political standpoint) of our own economy, and the inexperience of President Truman as a chief executive have made the last few months a political hayride that has been too tempting to pass up.

In his first year in office, President Truman has made some mistakes. He would be the first to admit it.

The opening he gave the opposition in insisting on Edwin A. Pauley for undersecretary of the Navy you could have driven a sledge-hammer through. And that's just what the opposition did.

The administration handling of the labor situation and the price control policies have been a source of dissension.

But results show, as in Reconversion Director John W. Snyder's recent report, that production for civilians now is at the highest level in the nation's history, that it has been more a quarrel over means than a blocking of the ends desired.

In some of his appointments, some of his little holiday trips, some of his hasty statements, President Truman has laid himself open to the kind of political sniping that hurts.

But I have had some of his outspoken opponents on the Hill tell me "off-the-record" (perhaps with an unspoken "except me" reservation), "I don't know of any one who could have done better under the circumstances."

Pettigrew on UN's Search for Another Home

DEAR festered friends:

I wish the united nations organization would find a place to live as it is making as much trouble as any other war veteran. One thing is clear and that is that it is giving the bronx a quick brushoff which is making the leaders of that place very sore and they claim that the diplomats gave them a better break than the bronx in every way and that the decision is an unfriendly act period new paragraph.

A head of the Mexican baseball league has decided to complain to the American ambassador about an American baseball player who has quit the league. The matter may yet be before the United Nations Security Council. Which is a fine idea. It would give the organization terrific press notices, especially if any delegate walks out.

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: I have been making a personal investigation of local housing. We are both holding our own here.

Every so often a farmhouse burns down, but not down or falls down, but these losses are made up in two ways. Either some city slicker who has decided to play gentleman farmer builds a new one, or remodels one that is about to fall in ruins. The only real building improvements made around here lately have been made with city money.

The natives get along with what they have and do a pretty fair job, thanks to the fact that what they have was built to last a long time and also thanks to the fact they don't need as much as they used to because families keep getting smaller and smaller. As to barns, which are supposedly important on farms, styles are changing. The big barns of former times are going out of fashion, because of tractors, and that saves money and material.

There is a lot of doubling up, which is the local solution to the problem of housing for veterans and their helpmeets. The old-fashioned farmhouse has plenty of space, and it's only a question of whether the women can get along under the same roof. I expect there are plenty of tense situations, but where a young couple expect to inherit the farm there is a special reason for getting along peacefully.

We have our share of squatters, especially right around the Corners. Some of them are living in the garages and shacks they moved into during the depression. A few have pulled themselves up by their bootstraps and now have real houses but are not numerous enough to mention. It used to be good politics to promise two cars in every garage, but a politician these days is laying it on if he promises the garage.

I am too old to worry about it. We get what we deserve, and I guess we don't deserve as much housing as we'd like. The emphasis has been shifted to other things. What we can't get for shelter we seem to be getting in the form of higher wages. A week ago I had a plumber out here for a long day. When I got the bill, it was for $24 for labor and a little less than that for materials. I can remember when a plumber would work a week for $24.

What it amounts to when you boil it down is that it's a long time between plumbing jobs that kind of pay. The individual plumber is not out better than he used to, but the customers get less and less for their money, and that in turn and less all adds up to the fact that fewer and fewer people can afford to hire not only plumbers but all other skilled workmen.

For instance, I still have the hole in the ground out back where your aunt and I intended to build a new house after the war. But it doesn't take much arithmetic to figure out that we can't afford to build a house over that hole now. We set aside $6,500. Either I can settle for a $5,500 house, which wouldn't be as handy as a lot of the we're living in now, or I can get more house for what we have.

I am going to hold my own, but it has become impossible for me to add anything to the total of housing in the United States. Maybe 1,000 or maybe 10,000,000 and there's your housing shortage. No amount of bureaucratic double-talk or mouthing is going to change it by so much as a single bent shingle nail.

It's spring up here—busting out all over. Bigger and better than ever. March was a wonderful month this year. I take back some of the unkind things I've said about March in the past.

Cotton Corners. Uncle George.

Russia To Work On Atom in Industry

MOSCOW, April 11—Research into the field of inter-atomic energy for industrial purposes is one of the most important tasks under the new Soviet five year plan, I. Tam, corresponding member of the academy of sciences of the USSR, declared today in a lengthy article in Pravda, Communist party organ.

Analyzing the problems faced in harnessing the uranium atom for industrial purposes, Tam said: "This great new power of nature may be turned into an economical, technical basis of human existence. It must be directed toward universal welfare, not toward destruction and ruin."

SIX YANK SURVIVORS VISIT ATROCITY SITE

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT, April 11 — Six survivors of the Malmedy massacre of nearly 100 American war prisoners returned today to sharpen their memories of the terrible event for testimony they will give at the trial of 75 German S.S. troops accused in the killings.

Grim, tight-lipped, some tearful, they stood in the very field where the Nazis machinegunned helpless captives taken in the battle of the Bulge.

It was only by luck that the six escaped—some by playing dead.

Stars and Stripes quoted war crimes prosecutors as saying that the visit to Malmedy had filled in many valuable details of the massacre which will be unfolded when the trial opens at Dnuchau on May 2.

The witnesses identified by the paper included Samuel Dobins, Sandusky, Ohio.

Chemist Says Waste Could Be Food Source

By The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 11—A chemical engineer today suggested utilization of waste food products as food sources to cope with a "shortage" of proteins in the United States.

In declaring there is a shortage of 20,000,000 tons of protein foods available to the nation's people and livestock, Dr. Robert T. Aries, of New Haven, Conn., told the American Chemical society this "could be partly offset by recovering proteins from pulp paper mill wastes."

He told the chemists in a report to their 109th meeting that in addition to 150,000,000 pounds of yeast and cattle fodder which can be produced annually from pulp wastes "a practically inexhaustible amount can be made from sawdust, wood waste and unsalable wood."

Berlo Building Addition.

Berlo Manufacturing Co. at 124 Blaine avenue is building a two-story addition to the rear of its present building. When completed the company will have about 18,000 square feet of floor space.

One of the big building projects completed in Marion during the last month is a large coal dock for the Erie Railroad. The new dock, located west of the roundhouse, was put in operation about three weeks ago and can handle 450 ton of coal.

The Isaly Dairy Co. has well under way its new building on East Center street. The building, constructed of glass brick, will be modern throughout. A retail store will be in front of the main plant with a large parking area around the building.

The Marion Metal Products Co. has been remodeling its buildings on Cheney avenue and Monroe street. Company remodeling began about a year ago and includes many new conveniences.

The Arro Expansion Bolt Co. on North Boone avenue also plans an extensive building program. Work has already started on the project, which will include an office addition to the factory.

The Marion Grain and Supply Co. is now located in its new building on Davids street and the Schlairet Transfer will double its warehouse space on the company's property on Lincoln avenue. Peerless Dry Cleaners also plan to enlarge its plant on East Center street, according to reports.

Half-Million in Permits

A Chamber of Commerce survey of the city clerk's office shows almost $500,000 in building permits have been issued in the last several months for commercial buildings, new houses, and remodeling and converting to multiple dwelling units.

At present, Chamber officials estimate 17 houses are under construction within the corporation and 10 in Marion township. They also report ten dwellings being converted to duplexes.

One private housing project, calling for construction of 21 new single unit residential properties on Merchant avenue is now getting under way. The houses are being built by Frank Postell of Fairview street, Marion contractor, and are expected to be completed before next winter.

Extensive Work Downtown

In the commercial zone more than 12 new structures are being erected, or major improvements being made to existing properties, the survey shows. The following firms on South Main street already have completed improvements: the Ohio Markets, Stones Grill, B. F. Goodrich Stores, Stein's Studio and the Modern Food Market.

The new Gallaher Drug store, now being erected, will face both South Main street and West Center street. A $100,000 permit was issued for this building.

Among major improvements on Center street will be the new S. S. Kresge Co. store which will more than double the present store capacity, and remodeling of the store room to be occupied by the Kinney Shoe Co. A new building is being erected for the L&K Sandwich shop.

The Sutton and Lightner firm is building a modern storeroom on South Prospect street and expects the building to be ready for occupancy by mid-summer. A new farm implement store is being erected on Bellefontaine avenue, and the Stewart Construction Co. is building a warehouse and office on Gill avenue.

New Auto Agencies

Two new automobile sales agencies are now well under construction, the Paul Lawther Motor Sales on East Center street near Greenwood and the Drumm Motor Sales at Farming and Main. The Lawther agency will handle Kaiser-Frazer cars and the Drumm agency Nash cars.

A farm implement building is now under construction at Bellefontaine avenue, and will house the Minneapolis-Moline agency. Electrical appliances and motor oils also will be sold and servicing of farm implements will be done. Owner of the business is Walter Rothfuss of near LaRue.

The Cigarette Sales Co. on North Main street, which went into its present building last June is reported to be building additional space on its second and third floors.

A major improvement on East Center street in the former Marion National bank rooms, soon to be completed, is the new home of the White Front market. A restaurant building is being erected at North Main and Fairground streets.

Projects Outside City

Building projects throughout the county also are reported. Business houses in neighboring towns are being remodeled. Many farmers are reported making improvements on their buildings where materials can be obtained. Farmers who are veterans of World War II can receive help in obtaining housing materials through priorities granted by the civilian production administration, according to Frank G. Montgomery, county AAA chairman.

Reserved for veterans' housing are part of the total production of common and face brick, clay sewer pipe, structural tile, gypsum board, gypsum lath, cast iron soil pipe and fittings, cast iron radiation, bathtubs, lumber and millwork. Farmers, both veterans and non-veterans, also may apply to OPA in Washington for help in securing building materials for other types of farm buildings as well as houses.
